BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 636, entitled:

An Act authorizing Gorge S. Smith a citizen of Huntingdon county Pennsylvania to bring suit in the court of common pleas of Dauphin County against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DELL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, George Smith, a laborer of Huntingdon, in 1913 was working on the State Highway. While loading a piece of heavy bridge timber or removing it from car over to a wagon an engine came along and scared the team. The other men were forced away from the piece of iron, and Mr. Smith was bearing it with herculean strength when a part of the wagon struck his arm and knocked his arm from under the beam and the piece of iron crushed him to the earth, and left him with a crippled limb which has dwindled until it is but flesh and bone. All that we ask is that Mr. Smith be permitted to bring suit against the State in the courts of Dauphin County.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

APPROVAL OF SENATE BILL NO. 21.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 19, 1915.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed Senate Bill No. 21, entitled: "An Act to validate deeds, mortgages, and other instruments of writing which have been defectively acknowledged by husband and wife prior to the fourth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen."

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

APPROVAL OF SENATE BILL NO. 27.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 19, 1915.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed Senate Bill No. 27, entitled: "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An Act to establish a County Court for the County of Allegheny and prescribing its powers, and duties, regulating the procedure therein, and providing for the expenses thereof,' approved the fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, constituting the said court the juvenile court of said county, and prescribing its organization, jurisdiction, and powers therein, and otherwise."

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

APPROVAL OF SENATE BILL NO. 30.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 19, 1915.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed Senate Bill No. 30, entitled: "An Act amending section seven of an act, entitled 'An Act to establish a County Court for the County of Allegheny, and prescribing its powers and duties, regulating the procedure therein, and providing for the expenses thereof,' approved the fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred eleven as amended by changing the practice in desertion and non-support cases."

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

VETO OF SENATE BILL NO. 2.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 19, 1915.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I return herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 2, entitled "An Act to amend the first section of an act approved the twenty-eighth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and twenty, entitled 'An Act relative to mortgages' by requiring purchase money mortgages to be recorded within ten days in order to have priority of lien."

Under the act of March 28, 1820, a limit of sixty days' time after the execution of purchase money mortgages was given for the recording thereof to create priority of lien therefor. The proposed act reduces this limit to ten days. As the act of 1820 has been so long in force, and as conveyancers and all having to do with titles to real estate, and the encumbrances thereof, have become accustomed to acting under its provisions, I do not deem it wise to make so radical a change unless there is some special beneficial reason therefor. For this reason the bill is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally, the objections of the Governor to the contrary nothwithstanding?

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, I reluctantly move that the question together with the further consideration of this meritorious bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth,
Harrisburg, March 22, 1915.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen: In accordance with the request of the Secretary of State of Connecticut, I have the honor to transmit herewith Preamble and Joint Resolution of the General Assembly of that State.

Yours truly,

(Signed) CYRUS E. WOODS,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

STATE OF CONNECTICUT,
General Assembly,
January Session, A. D. 1915.
(House Joint Resolution No. 92.)

RESOLUTION RECOMMENDING AN AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES CONCERNING POLYGAMY.

Whereas, It appears from investigation recently made by the Senate of the United States, and otherwise, that polygamy still exists in certain places in the United States notwithstanding prohibitory statutes enacted by the several States thereof, and

Whereas, The practice of polygamy is generally condemned by the people of the United States, and there is a demand for the more effectual prohibition thereof by placing the subject under federal jurisdiction and control, at the same time reserving to each State the right to make and enforce its own laws relating to marriage and divorce now; therefore,

Resolved, That the application be made and hereby is made under the provisions of Article V, of the Constitution of the United States whereby polygamy and polygamous cohabitation shall be prohibited, and Congress shall be given power to enforce such prohibition by appropriate legislation.

Resolved, That the legislatures of all other States of the United States now in session or when next convened, hereby are respectfully requested to join in this application by the adoption of this or an equivalent resolution.

Resolved further, That the Secretary of State hereby is directed to transmit copies of this application to the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, and to the several members of said bodies representing this State therein; also to transmit copies hereof to the legislatures of all other States of the United States.

State of Connecticut, House of Representatives, March 4, 1915.
Passed. JOHN BUCKLEY, Clerk.

State of Connecticut, Senate, March 11, 1915.
Passed. SABIN S. RUSSELL, Clerk.

State of Connecticut, Office of the Secretary, ss.

I, Chas. D. Burns, Secretary of the State of Connecticut, and keeper of the seal thereof, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of a preamble and resolution passed by the General Assembly of said State, at its January Session, 1915.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Seal of said State, at Hartford, this eighteenth day of March, 1915.

CHAS. D. BURNS, Secretary.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION URGING CONGRESS TO MAKE ADEQUATE PROVISION FOR EMERGENCY MEN WHO SERVED IN THE CIVIL WAR.

He also laid before the Senate extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was read as follows and referred to the Committee on Pensions and Gratuities:

In the House of Representatives, March 16, 1915.

Whereas During the Civil War this Commonwealth was twice threatened by an invasion of the Confederate forces under General Lee namely at Antietam in one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two and at Gettysburg in one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three and

Whereas At the urgent appeal of President Lincoln the Governor of Pennsylvania Andrew G. Curtin in both of said years called upon citizens of Pennsylvania to enlist in the defense of the State and

Whereas It is generally admitted that the Emergency Men of Pennsylvania answering the call of Governor Curtin were potential factors in this terrible crisis and

Whereas Neither the State nor the Nation has shown to these brave defenders of Pennsylvania the proper appreciation of their services when at the call of the Governor during the days of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two and one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three they left their homes and firesides and hastened to the defense of their State and

Whereas In many of the encounters that ensued after the enlistment of these Emergency Men these men bore themselves bravely and fully answered every demand made upon them in the line of patriotic duty and

Whereas Said Emergency Men were commanded by United States officers and marched under orders of the United States Government and under such commanders performed duties beyond the boundaries of Pennsylvania and

Whereas Now in their old age many of these men who at that time were willing to lay down their lives as a sacrifice for the good of their country are now facing the sunset of life in straightened circumstances and in many cases in need of that care and attention which the Government and the Commonwealth should provide and

Whereas The National Government heretofore in its acknowledgment of the debt we owe to the soldiers of the Civil War has cared for many men whose services rendered were not greater than those rendered by the Emergency Men of Pennsylvania therefore

Be it resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urgently bring it to the attention of the Congress of the United States that adequate provision has not been made for the Emergency Men who enlisted during the Civil War particularly the Emergency Men of Pennsylvania and that through pension or otherwise they should be taken care of in their declining days that they cannot say that their country iis unmindful of their services and ungrateful for what they did

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 268 (House No. 206), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation for the payment of the expenses of publication of amendments to the Constitution for the three years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and twelve and directing the Auditor-General and the State Treasurer to cause the same to be paid

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HILTON. Mr. President, this is the bill known as the newspaper bill, which calls for the settlement of the advertising of the constitutional amendments over the veto of the Auditor General, and I think by all means should be defeated. This bill calls for a somewhat excessive cost of advertising in 1912, 1913 and 1914, as it did in 1911. Some of these papers that have settled for lower prices in 1909, 1910 and 1911, than the Auditor General is now settling for, it means that those papers are to get less money and that all the papers who got excessive prices in those years, it means that they are to continue with those high prices in 1912, 1913 and 1914. If this bill goes through it is a case where the papers who were satisfied with reasonable charges in those years are to pay a penalty for doing so and the papers who got excessive prices are to continue with those same excessive prices in 1912, 1913 and 1914. Now, this act takes an appropriation of $91,000, and in my opinion that means to take out of the State Treasury $91,000 the State does not owe and should not pay. It calls for a new practice which opens up the State Treasury in the Auditor General's department entirely different from what it ever was before. As far back as the year of 1811 the Pennsylvania Legislature passed an act making the Auditor-General the main protector of our State funds. Ever since that time it has been his duty and his privilege to protect bills and not pay them where they were too high. But, Mr. President, after passing the century mark since that act was passed, we now propose to pass over the Auditor-General's head and take money out of the State Treasury that we do not owe and very much need for other purposes at the present time. Where are we going to stop if we start a practice of this sort? Who can see the maximum amount that we are going to pay out in case every one who is dissatisfied can have bills passed for any amount over the Auditor-General's head. Consider the millions of dollars that pass through this department, that need the Auditor-General's attention and approval, that may pass out of the State Treasury in case we adopt a system of this kind at the present time. Now, we all know that any proprietor of any business who would settle with a bill rendered man and pass over the veto of his Secretary, that he would not last very long because the Secretary would pay on that ground and would know the actual price, but if the proprietor would pass over his head, he could not continue very long in prosperity, so I do not believe there is a man in this Senate who would do business in that way. While we are not doing business for ourselves in the Senate, we have taken an oath to protect the State's money with the same carefulness and the same economy we would our own money. We all went on record two years ago and last fall to do everything we could to raise money for good roads, and while we are united, regardless of party lines, at the present time, the great trouble is, how are we going to raise money sufficient for good roads? That is one of the troubles of the present time. If we are to raise sufficient money for that purpose, it means either increase taxation or more economy in the different departments, or both, raise money here and there for that purpose.

Now, gentlemen, if we pass acts of this kind and make a practice of this kind, there is no limit to what you are to pay out of the State Treasury. This bill calls for, in some cases, very excessive prices and in some cases it does not. I have cases here, I think it is the Pittsburgh Press where, in case this bill goes through, they will have to refund $530, in other cases $150 and so on. I think by all means this bill ought to be defeated because it is poorly gotten up, it is imperfect, and it is on the wrong principle.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I cannot just exactly understand the position of the Senator from McKeen. Only a week ago he endeavored to have written into this bill an addition of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars to what the bill now carries. Some time ago there was submitted by the Auditor-General to the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the House a statement carrying one hundred and forty-six thousand dollars and a little more to take care of all the disputed bills pending before the Auditor General. There was passed in the General Deficiency Bill in the early part of this session one hundred thousand dollars which has been approved by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, and there now remains forty-six thousand dollars in round numbers which are carried in this bill and only a week ago we had the Senator from McKeen endeavoring to read into this bill an additional one hundred thousand dollars, when I arose in my place and asked him if it was not a fact that he was endeavoring to write in an additional one hundred thousand dollars for the purpose of defeating this bill and to-night he answered the question by asking the Senate to vote down this bill, because the Senate is asking for forty-six thousand dollars instead of one hundred and forty-six thousand dollars to pay these bills. Mr. President, I am advised that there are some three hundred newspapers in Pennsylvania which are affected by this act and if the forty-six thousand dollars provided by this bill passes it will clean up every bill that is existing against the State of Pennsylvania by reason of the printing of the constitutional amendments, and I have here letters from three of the newspapers in his own county, I am advised that the fourth and fifth have been sold out by the two persons who would be entitled to the money if these bills are paid, one living now in Oklahoma and the other in the State of Ohio; so that in his own county of McKeen the five people who are affected and whose bills will be paid if the bill goes through are asking for the passage of this bill. What the Senator from McKeen is asking is if the Senate of Pennsylvania shall open up all accounts to disputes that have been settled and vouchers taken in full by the Auditor-General's office and what this bill is intended to do is to pay the newspapers whose accounts are disputed on the same basis that Auditor-Generals Young, Sisson, and even the present Auditor-General, have paid, and Mr. President I hope that the Senate will pass this bill and allow the State to wipe out the indebtedness that it justly owes to these several newspapers whose accounts are now in dispute.

Mr. HILTON. Mr. President, I saw Auditor-General Powell today and in going over the books again he informs me that forty-six thousand dollars will not take care of this act. It will take ninety some thousand dollars. That is what he informs me this afternoon after talking it over with two of his men so that this forty-six thousand dollars will not take care of the act.

In answer to the Senator from Dauphin County in regard to the amendment that I offered last Monday night, I wish to say that he misrepresented that amendment. I offered an amendment last Monday night whereby the Governor will appoint a Committee of five for the purpose of settling these disputes in constitutional advertisements. The maximum amount that they could use would be one hundred and fifty-nine thousand dollars in case the Committee would decide to grant that according to bills rendered. But anyone knows that a committee of five appointed by the Governor would not do anything of that kind. We would have the same confidence in that Committee that would be appointed by the Governor that we would have in a commission that was formed by our laws and instead of one hundred and fifty-nine thousand dollars that that Committee would settle upon or ninety-one thousand or forty-six thousand, it would not be anything like that, because I am satisfied that that Committee would decide that Auditor-General Powell allowed all he ought to allow.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I simply want to say in corroboration of what I have already said to the Senate, I have here the letter of the Auditor-General addressed to Mr. Woodward under date of February first, where he fixes the amount to be required to settle these bills to be one hundred and forty-six thousand dollars and eighty cents; one hundred thousand was carried by the General Deficiency Bill, passed in the early part of the session. This bill No. 206 provides for the payment of the balance, forty-six thousand and forty dollars and eighty cents so that under the showing made by the Auditor-General under his own hand, signed by himself, and his chief clerk he finds the sum of forty-six thousand and forty dollars and forty-six cents sufficient to pay the bills in dispute.

Mr. RAYMOND E. SMITH. Mr. President, The fairest method of analysis of the bills submitted for the advertising of the proposed constitutional amendments is that by which all bills are figured on the basis of the rate per line per thousand of circulation. Circulation is the principal measure of value in advertising, and therefore the principal standard by which prices are fixed. It is true that the State's advertising differs from commercial advertising in that it is not meant to produce profit to the advertiser; but the commercial method of computing the proper rate is the one it is correct to apply. This is for the reason that when the Secretary of the Commonwealth places an order for the printing of the proposed amendments by a newspaper, he stipulates, in the printed form of order, that the advertising "shall be charged for, only at the rates USUALLY charged advertisers who advertise in the ORDINARY ADVERTISING MEDIUMS" Accordingly then, the bills rendered the State should be passed upon the newspapers' value as a medium for general advertising. If the publisher renderes a bill at a higher rate it is in defiance of the terms of the order, which he should reject, if the offered rate does not please him. And further when the publisher submits his bill, he must append thereto, an affidavit in which he swears that the rate charged is no greater than the paper's regular value or rate.

Here is a table which exhibits the bills of daily papers from 5,000 to 10,000 circulation, for the State advertising done in 1914, all figured on the basis of the charge per line per thousand circulation. What this table reveals is startling.

Average rate per line per 1,000 cir.	.12515

Here are a few examples by way of illustration of the remarkable lack of uniformity in the matter of rates. The Chester Times, in which the Senator from Delaware is interested, asks only six-tenths of a cent per thousand of circulation. Now the Chester Times is an old and able, and eminently respectable newspaper and has a great influence in its community; and that it is popular in its community is shown by the fact that it has a circulation of 9,000 in a city of approximately 40,000 persons. The Chester Times asks six-tenths of a cent; but the New Castle News, published in a city of about the same population, asks one-and two-tenths cents, or exactly twice as much per line per thousand.

Here is another typical contrast: The Lancaster New Era is one of the influential newspapers among the third class cities of the State. It asks .58 of a cent per thousand subscribers. Against it, we set the Meadville Tribune Republican, which demand 1.72 per line per thousand, or practically three times as much. The bill of the Pottsville Republican is at the rate of 2.17 cents per thousand, and it is higher on this basis than the bill of any paper in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh.

The Greensburg Tribune asks two cents per line per thousand, while the Connellsville Courier, published in the same section of the State, thinks that eight-tenths of a cent is a fair rate. The Oil City Derrick thinks nine-tenths of a cent is enough; but the Titusville Herald published only a short distance away asks one and eight-tenths cents, or twice as much.

The Allentown Chronicle and News, which is a paper of good standing, asks seven-tenths of a cent, but the Bradford Star & Record asks that the State pay it at the rate of three & one-tenth cents per line, or over four times as much per thousand of circulation. If the Allentown paper's rate is fair, what is to be said of the bill of the Bradford Star & Record? Or if the Allentown Chronicle & News is doing business for less than cost, ought not the stockholders ask for the appointment of a receiver?

From other figures not included in this table, I find that the Williamsport Sun, one of the great interior papers of the Commonwealth, asks less than six-tenths of a cent per line, per thousand subscribers, or only one-fifth the rate demanded by the Bradford Star & Record less than a third of the rate asked by the Pottsville Republican, and only half the rate asked by the New Castle News. The Easton Free Press, said to be one of the State's notably prosperous newspapers, is satified with three-quarter of a cent.

We find from the bills submitted in recent years that there is not only lack of uniformity as between the bills of several publishers, but lack of consistency as to rates, in individual instances. In 1910, with a circulation of only 3,700 the Bradford Star & Record asked 17 1-2 cents a line. In 1914 with 5,200 circulation, it asked the same per line. Did it charge too much in 1910, or too little in 1914? Or did it charge too much in both years?

I have another table which compares the rates charged by some of the great Philadelphia newspapers with those charged by the modest Bradford paper.

NORTH AMERICAN.

Circulation, 200,000; rate per line, 25 cents; .25 by 200 equals .00125, 1¼ mills; or, North American's rate per line per thousand of circulation.

BRADFORD EVENING STAR AND RECORD.

Circulation, 5200; rate per line, 17½ cents; .175 divided by 5.2 equals .03365, 3.36 cents; or Bradford Evening Star and Record's rate per line per thousand of circulation..

Divide Bradford Evening Star and Record's rate per line per thousand by that of the North American,—33 mills by 1¼ mills,—and the Bradford paper's rate is found to be 26.4 times greater than that of the Philadelphia daily.

If the North American had rendered a bill on the same basis as that of the Bradford paper, the North American would be asking the State for $49,200 instead of $1,638 that they did charge, and the North American has just as much right to receive $49,200 as the Bradford paper has to get $1185. (1638x26.4)

PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN.

Circulation, 332,193; rate per line, 26¾ cents; .2675 divided by 332,193 equals .000805; practically 8-10 of one mill; which is the Bulletin's rate per line per thousand of circulation.

Divide Bradford Evening Star and Record's rate per line per thousand by that of the Bulletin, and the Bradford's paper's rate is found to be 42 times greater than that of the Bulletin. (.0336 divided by .0008).

If the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin had rendered a bill on the basis of the Bradford Evening Star and Record, the Bulletin would be asking the State for $77,177.04 instead of $1,836.12 which they did charge, and they have just as much right to charge that amount as the Bradford paper has to charge $1,185.

CHESTER TIMES.

Circulation, 8919; rate per line per 1,000 circulation, .006; bill rendered for 1914, $371.

Bill of the Chester Times on the basis of the rate per line per 1,000 circulation of the Bradford Evening Star and Record would have been $1,912 instead of $371, and if the Evening Star and Record's charge be just, then I say that the management of the Chester Times does not have good common business sense, and should have a guardian appointed for it.

I also submit another table which is illuminating.

Note. All the papers of the State with circulations in excess of 10,000 and with an average circulation in excess of 50,000 charge an average rate of less than 17½ c. in 1913 per line.

Gentlemen, I call upon you in the name of fairness and common decency to defeat this bill. How are you going to square yourself with your home papers which are charging a decent rate if you vote to pay various other papers three or four times as much for doing the same work? This amendment advertising business has botten to be a stench in the nostrils of the people of this State, and we cannot afford to longer encourage a system of graft perpetuated for the purpose of subsidizing the press of this commonwealth.

Some may by false logic and specious argument seek to blind our eyes to the evils of this overpaid system and to make its blackness appear as the garb of the lily, but all the argument in the world does not make black white or wrong right. Every senator here down in his heart knows that there is something wrong. Therefore I ask you to be true to your better thought, and vote according to the dictates of your own conscience and nothing else. For these reasons which I have enumerated, I shall vote against this bill.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Crawford, Mr. Smith.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Crawford, Mr. Smith, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RAYMOND E. SMITH. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Senator from Crawford whether there is any difference in the number of lines per inch in the papers that he has seen fit to favor and the number of lines in the particular paper which he seems to have as his target to aim and shoot at in his argument against the passage of this bill.

Mr. RAYMOND E. SMITH. Mr. President, I would say to the Senator from Dauphin that there is a difference in the number of lines published in various papers, but I will say for his information that most all newspapers use what is known as "Boiler Plate" which can be bought, or could have been bought last fall, for a sum not exceeding two or three dollars.

Therefore, that is no excuse for using seven lines to the inch when you can just as well get this boiler plate all ready set up for three or four dollars, which may contain fourteen lines or twelve lines to the inch.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the Senator from Crawford.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Crawford, Mr. Smith, permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. RAYMOND E. SMITH. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Senator from Crawford why he picks one particular newspaper and leaves between four or five hundred other newspapers out of his discussion relative to the payment of this bill?

Mr. RAYMOND E. SMITH. Mr. President, I would say that I have compared here as many as a dozen or fifteen newspapers. You all heard the table I read.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, the comparison, as I understand it, is against the Bradford Evening Star. I ask him why he limits his paper to the Bradford Star when there are some five hundred newspapers in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that are adversely affected if this bill is not passed?

Mr. RAYMOND E. SMITH. Mr. President, I would say that the Bradford Evening Star is affected perhaps more than any other publication in the State because it had the gall to ask four or five times as much as any other paper.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the Senator from Crawford, Mr. Smith.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Crawford, Mr. Smith, permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. RAYMOND E. SMITH. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Senator if he thinks the North American ought to be paid on the basis of the newspapers that go out of the State as well as those which stay in the State, when the Bradford Evening Star and other papers have their publication practically confined within the Commonwealth?

Mr. RAYMOND E. SMITH. Mr. President, I would say in answer to what the Senator from Dauphin says about this matter that the Bradford Star is located not a great way from the New York line. I suppose their papers are circulated outside of the State just as well as the North American.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to say for the benefit of the Senator from Crawford, that I am advised that none of the Bradford Star goes out of the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. HILTON. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Beidleman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Beidleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, certainly.

Mr. HILTON. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Senator who is going to interpret what the rates are to be regulated by? In this bill it says one of the three years, 1909, 1910 and 1911, that the bills are to be the same price in 1912, 1913 and 1914; who is to interpret which one of the three years it is? Now there are different prices paid in those three years.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr President, I would say in answer to the interrogation of the Senator from McKean applying the business methods he claims that he would like to have applied, they would take the lowest rate of the three years.

Mr. HILTON. Mr. President, this is a very inperfect bill in that line because I do not see how it is possible to determine what the rate is to be because it says any one of those three years, and the rates were different in the three years. I think it is impossible. I think it is an imperfect bill and makes it unconstitutional.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer:

O God, We doubly thank Thee that we are living in a marvelous age, an age of scientific discovery. Medical science has discovered the antitoxin and the serum to dispel the disease from the body. We thank Thee that we are living in an age of great problems to be solved, problems that reach down to the very lowest strata of society and then up through the social organization even to the highest position in government and in the church. We thank Thee, O God, that Thou hast offered us Thine infinite wisdom to solve these problems, a wisdom that projects itself from every sacred page in the Holy Bible, a book recording Thy will. The men who used Thy wisdom and statesmen who possessed it were the men who built great nations and have perpetuated their names in sacred and profane history; but the men who have rejected Thy wisdom and disobeyed Thy will have brought ruin upon themselves and destruction upon empires. These empires have passed away and have buried themselves deep down in the dust of the earth to be forgotten forever.

O God, Thou hast written in letters of fire so that every man can read: "Him that honoreth me I will honor." O God, help us to honor Thee and aid our fellow men, we ask, for Christ's sake, Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of Thursday, March 18th, 1915.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary of the Governor being introduced presented the following communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows, viz:

APPPROVAL OF RESOLUTION.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 19, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved a resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives providing for the creation of a commission whose duty it shall be to investigate thoroughly all charges appearing in the public prints recently against institutions of the State, and those receiving state aid, and to report thereon in writing as soon as practicable at this session of the General Assembly.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Also the following:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 176.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 19, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith, without my approval, House Bill No. 176, entitled "An Act requiring County Commissioners in certain counties to provide quarters in the county buildings for the official County Association of Physicians and Surgeons."

This bill, which is evidently intended solely for Allegheny County, is a usurpation of the rights of the taxpayers of that county. It is mandatory and not permissive in its nature. It requires the County Commissioners to maintain and furnish in the Court House (which is built and maintained by the taxes of the people of Allegheny County), permanent and suitable quarters, free of charge, for the recognized official County Association of Physicians and Surgeons This association has no official standing so far as the law of Pennsylvania is concerned. It is strictly a private association. Giving them, free of charge, permanent and suitable quarters at the expense of the public is constituting a favorite class, and is the taking of public property for private use. Such a bill, in my judgment, is clearly in contravention of the Declaration of Rights, and is a departure of Anglo Saxon traditions of many generations. It gives the people no opportunity to decide whether they wish this done or not.

Under the Constitution it is clearly not within the power of classification given to the General Assembly. The Supreme Court has held that classification may be resorted to only when there is clear ground for making a class. There is no clear ground in this case.

For this reason the bill is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGHH.

On the question,

Shall the bill become a law, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 255.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 19, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith, without my approval, House Bill No. 255, entitled: "An Act to amend section four of an act approved the eleventh day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, entitled 'A further supplement to an act entitled 'An Act to establish a Board of Wardens for the Port of Philadelphia and for the regulation of pilots and pilotage, and for other purposes, approved March twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and three, and for regulating rates of pilotage and number of pilots.'"

The statutes of the United States forbid the States from enacting any law authorizing the levying of pilot charges on licensed or enrolled coast-wise sea-going vessels. This bill is in violation of these statutes.

For this reason the bill is not approved.

RESOLUTION GRANTING USE OF THE HALL OF THE HOUSE TO JUDICIARY GENERAL COMMITTEE.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent of the House to offer the following resolution.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk for information.

The resolution was twice read as follows:

Resolved, That permission be given to the Judiciary General Committee to use the Hall of the House on Tuesday, March 30th, at 7:30 P. M. for a public hearing of House Bill No. 663, repealing moving picture censors.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to consider the resolution at this time? The Chair hears no objection.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

BILL PLACED ON CALENDAR.

Mr. LIPSCHUTZ. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 907, entitled:

An Act providing for the manner of introducing legislation appropriating money for the support of State institutions and aid for semi-State institutions and charitable institutions be placed upon the calendar notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the Committee.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I might say to the House that this is a bill to expedite the passage of the great mass of appropriation bills. The passage of appropriation bills in this House requires the calling of the roll some six or seven hundred times. If passed by the House it can be carried up to the Supreme Court and if declared constitutonal will expedite the passage of appropriation bills and the result will be that these bills will be passed in a manner that will fully comply with the Constitution; namely on all bills on final passage the yea and nay vote shall be taken. In this case one yea and nay vote will pass all of the bills for charitable institutions; one yea and nay vote will pass all the bills for semi-charitable institutions; one yea and nay vote will pass all the appropriations for State institutions. I think it would be much wiser to pass this bill and let it be taken up by the Supreme Court on a test case to decide the constitutionality because I think the members and the public have come to realize that the passage of appropriation bills has been almost a nightmare to the Legislature of Pennsylvania. I hope the House will place it on the calendar. I think it was negatived without a full understanding and I think the committee itself will be glad to see the bill go on the calendar and let the House express its opinion.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

A division was called for, 90 gentlemen having voted in the affirmative and 85 in the negative, the motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, there is no doubt in my mind that a number of the members of the House have a vague conception of this new Military Code which was ostensibly framed for the purpose of creating greater efficiency in the Pennsylvania National Guard, and placing it on a footing with the regular army of the United States.

The main purpose of this bill is the proper organization and regulation of the National Guard of the State to conform in a divisional organization to the requirements of the War Department along the lines of national defense.

The pending bill changes the present law governing the National Guard in but two important particulars.

First. It provides for a properly balanced division of troops. There are but two States in the United States that are in position to organize and maintain a properly balanced division, which would include three brigades of infantry, one brigade of artillery composed of two regiments, one regiment of cavalry, and the auxiliary organizations such as engineer and signal corps troops and field hospitals. The distinct advantage to the State in having a properly organized division is in the fact that in the event of war, and the troops being called into the United States service, they would be taken into the service as an organized division of Pennsylvania troops, and would so remain throughout the period of the war. During the Civil War Pennsylvania was the only State that had a complete division of troops, namely, the Pennsylvania Reserve Volunter Corps. During the Spanish War, Pennsylvania was the only State that had a brigade composed exclusively of Pennsylvania troops, and this brigade was commanded by Brigadier General Gobin. Should Pennsylvania be unable to provide a complete and properly balanced division in the event of a call for troops for war purposes, under the regulations of the War Department, the troops of the State would be divided and assimilated with the troops of other States in forming brigades and divisions, and the State would therefore lose that desired identity of a complete division, and it would also be very disappointing to the comradeship of the officers and men who enter the service. They would be deprived of serving together and their identity as far as Pennsylvania State Troops is concerned, would be largely lost.

Second. The second material difference between this bill and the present law is the provision relating to the appointment by the Governor, as Commander-in-Chief of the National Guard, of certain regimental and company officers. The commanding officer of the regiment, however, appoints the staff officers of a regiment, in the same manner as provided for in the present law, and the men of the respective company organizations elect the Second Lieutenant of the company, as in the present law. This method of appointment it is believed by the military authorities will add very greatly to the efficiency of the officers, which is, of course, most desirable.

This bill has been very carefully prepared by the military authorities of the State, and has been submitted to the War Department for consideration, and has been fully approved by the War Department as being in line with their plans and desires for a National defensive force, and with a further view of finally according to Pennsylvania a divisional organization.

The bill provides for an additional force of certain arms of the service, but these will not of necessity be new or added organiaztions of the National Guard, but in arranging a properly balanced division, it will be done by transferring organizations now in the service to other arms of the service than that in which they are now serving.

Pennsylvania is today acknowledged by the best military authorities of the country to have the most efficient and the best equipped body of organized militia in the United States. This is a distinction acquired by the State of Pennsylvania that should be a matter of pride to every citizen. The dependability of this force will be very much enhanced and add greatly to the credit of the State of Pennsylvania if it can be shaped into a properly balanced division of troops with the necessary auxiliary organizations, and this is one of the main objects sought to be accomplished by this bill.

The advanced position of the National Guard of Pennsylvania has been a matter of frequent commendation by those most competent to judge, and a further advance which will no doubt be made with the provisions of this bill put in force will not only add to the dignity of the Commonwealth, but must be a source of gratification to every citizen who takes pride in his Commonwealth, and who is interested in the defense of the nation in the event of war.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 416, File Folio 2193, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the eighth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirteen entitled "An Act regulating the appointment confirmation duties salary and expenses of county detectives in counties containing not less than three hundred thousand nor more than seven hundred thousand inhabitants" by extending its provisions to counties having a population of two hundred thousand inhabitants but not more than seven hundred thousand inhabitants and by repealing section three of the act on page one of today's calendar, Bills on Final Passage Postponed for the Present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 416, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the eighth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirteen entitled "An Act regulating the appointment confirmation duties salary and expenses of county detectives in counties containing not less than three hundred thousand nor more than seven hundred thousand inhabitants" by extending its provisions to counties having a population of two hundred thousand inhabitants but not more than seven hundred thousand inhabitants and by repealing section three of the act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section one of an act approved the eighth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirteen entitled "An Act regulating the appointment confirmation duties salary and expenses of county detectives in counties containing not less than three hundred thousand nor more than seven hundred thousand inhabitants" which reads as follows

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WEAVER. Mr. Speaker, the representatives from Westmoreland County have not wearied you and the gentlemen of this House with their oft speaking; but this bill effects our interests and we feel bound to utter a word of protest tonight. This bill is an amendment of the Act of 1913, P. L. 157. This amendment makes two changes in the Act of 1913; it lowers the population in counties from three hundred thousand to two hundred thousand by eliminating section three of the act it deprives the Court of having any voice whatever in the appointment of the four detectives provided for by this Act of Assembly. Under the census of 1910 Westmoreland County had a population of a little over two hundred and thirty-one thousand. Under the law, as we have it at present, we have one county detective in Westmoreland County and that one detective is all we need. Now we understand that this bill is offered for the purpose of correcting some difficulty that may exist in the County of Luzerne. I have been informed—I do not know how truthfully—but I have been told that in Luzerne County the Judges are of a different political faith from the District Attorney and that the District Attorney has had some difficulty in having four men appointed to the office of County Detective to his liking for the reason that the Court would not select the men or confirm the men of his selection. Now over in Westmoreland County we have no difficulty of that kind. We are in love with our Judges over there and we have no thought or desire whatever of taking away from them the right which they have always had and which we think the Court ought to have in matters of this kind. Right at the head of our Government the Senate is a check on the President. The President makes his appointment, but it must be subject to the confirmation of the Senate; and we believe that if this right were taken away from the court it would throw even this matter open to a great many abuses; and over and above that, gentlemen, we are certain that this fastens on the County of Westmoreland an expenditure of fifty-four hundred dollars, in addition to what we have, and to absolutely no purpose. We have a barracks of the State Constabulary in Westmoreland County and so has Luzerne County, as I am informed by the gentlemen at my left, and I believe that to be correct, and those men of the State Constabulary are worth more to us than all the County Detectives we could pack into Westmoreland County. It would be an expenditure of fifty-four hundred dollars to absolutely no purpose whatever. Now we look with longing eyes to those forty-one votes from Philadelphia and with bewitching eyes on those twenty-four votes from Allegheny County. In these smaller counties we feel it would be impossible for us to put over anything for the right or fight anything off if you are against us, and we beseech you to take a reasonable view of this. If Luzerne County has any private reason why that particular county wants something done, don't fasten it on us. We would like you men to stand with us and vote "No" on this bill.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, the purpose of this bill is to enable the District Attorneys of Luzerne, Allegheny, Schuylkill and Westmoreland Counties to appoint certain officers to be known as County Detectives. I might call the attention of the gentleman of Westmoreland to the fact that the present District Attorney of Luzerne County is a Democrat and that the Court of Luzerne County is also Democratic. There is no difficulty with the present Court to my knowledge, but there has been difficulty heretofore. I might take a few minutes of your time in going back to the year of 1910. In the year 1910 we had a gentleman by the name of Williams who ran for the office of District Attorney and was elected by a substantial vote. He assumed the right to appoint two county detectives. I was one and another gentleman by the name of Morris was the other man. This District Attorney was elected by the people, by the votes cast by them in their judgment proving that he was a fit man for this office. When it came to these appointments the Court had to confirm. This is one of the very few of the many offices within the Commonwealth that the Court must confirm. The Court would not go along with the second appointee, with the result that I was forced to work single-handed because the District Attorney would not go along with the Court for the man that they wanted. Now, gentlemen, if the District Attorney is given the power to appoint his first, second, third, fourth or fifth assistant from the District Attorney's personal standpoint then we think it is nothing but fair that he should be given the right to say as to who should be his county detectives and not be up to the court. Now, gentlemen, this bill originally—I want to be fair—was supposed to be for Luzerne County, but the members from Lackawanna County and the members from Schuylkill County asked me to amend it to take them in, therefore, I amended the bill.

Mr. GARNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. GARNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Luzerne what members from Schuylkill asked him to amend the bill.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Adam Schaeffer and Mr. Palmer.

Mr. GARNER. Mr. Speaker, upon behalf of the Second Legislative District of Schuylkill County, I assure the members that they don't want it.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, I endorse the stand taken by the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Powell. I want to say this: I take up this question as a matter of fairness before this House without regard to Westmoreland County or without regard to Schuylkill County and I asked the members to decide it upon the merits of the bill. It provides for the appointment of county detectives by the District Attorney and not by the Court That is perfectly fair and follows out the rule as in any other employment that I know of. The employe or the employed should be under the direction of the employer, under the man for whom he is working and not under the jurisdiction of the Court. There is no question about that, and that has been the general rule. It is up to the District Attorney in each one of these counties to decide what is best in the administration of justice and in finding evidence for the Commonwealth. He does not necessarily have to appoint them, but he can; and on behalf of the Fourth Legislative District, and, I believe, for Schuylkill County, I endorse Mr. Powell and his bill.

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, as a representative of the other county affected, namely, Lackawanna County, I desire to express my approval of this bill. The District Attorney of our County and all the leading attorneys up there are very much in favor of the bill introduced by Mr. Powell. I hope the gentlemen will take this into consideration, that of the four counties represented there are only objections from one, namely, Westmoreland.

Mr. WEAVER. Mr. Speaker, when I was at home the latter part of last week I took the trouble to go to the County Commissioners of Westmoreland County, to the District Attorney of Westmoreland to the Judges of Westmoreland County, and without except they said that it was a pernicious bill as applied to Westmoreland County; and that if other counties were determined to have a bill of this kind, that was their affair; but that it foisted upon Westmoreland County an additional expenditure of fifty-four hundred dollars. There are gentlemen here who will say that, of course, perhaps the District Attorney will not appoint all of these men but I would like to know if it is possible for human beings, when stress is put upon them, and when there are positions to be filled, whether it is possible to find a man who will say, "No, I will not appoint a man." It simply means an expenditure of a fifty-four hundred dollars to a county that is already loaded with debt; and the whole purpose of this bill, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of this House, is to take the authority away from the Court. I believe this to be a pernicious principle. While there may be a judge in this State something like a judge that we heard of in this Hall last week, the rank and file of the judges in this State are honest and honorable and learned men and I believe it is a very great mistake to take away from them the right they have in confirming appointments of this kind. We are going too far on the other extreme in this day.

The poem referred to is as follows:

PENNSYLVANIA

BY HARVEY M. WATTS

Lo, sons of no mean Commonwealth, we come
From Eastern portals to the Western gate;
As those of old who cried "Romanus sum,"
So we exultant speak the name of State,
Proclaim the great "experiment" that wrought,
As if by necromance 'mong doubting men,
Fruition sure—beyond his ardent thought,
Yet hidden in the very heart of Penn!
And bear the message, flash it sea to sea,
Who freedom serve must of themselves be free!

We come, our heritage the "Woods of Penn,"
To dedicate this fair memorial here;
No Eldorado in our fastnesses,
Nor golden Ophirs in our sunny sands,
No tropic lures enchant, e'er-blooming flowers,
No Shasta rises with its crown of snow,
Nor giant woodlands jetting to the sky!
But still we "lift our eyes unto the hills"
Whose lesser beauties glorify the scene;
Green to their crests and cultivate of slope,
The broken ridges of a shrunken earth,
Tumultous strewn, wind-scarped and water-worn,
Whose ramparts grant asylum, yea, and give
All that the yeoman crave for hearth and home!—
From land of Minnisink and Pocono,
Banking horizons with their mystic blue,
Or open mead, as rivers wind their way
From dark-aisled forests where the hemlocks sigh,
Or broad-reached creeks, embowered with the grape
Festooned from birch and elm in tangled mass,
Yielding in June a scented wizardry,
While laurel blushes on the mountain ledge,
Or where the cedarn spires with creeper bound
Contrast the dogwood in the dying copse,
Which crimsons all in tribute far and wide
As Autumn's mellow "Indian summer" rules,
And wigwams in the small, the corn-shock stand
In tent-like silhouettes against the sky,
We come; from rivers singing to the sea
In lyric softness of melodious names,
Swift Delaware, broad Susquehanna, too,
The rippling Juniata 'midst its hills,
The Lehigh breaking through its barrier walls,
And dark Monongahela, hastening on
Till at the Forks, in Allegheny's vale,
It yields, and famed Ohio sweeps in pride
Its yellow torrent to the western flood,
Bearing its burden to the far-off seas
That lave the very gates of Panama!

Rich is our heritage in means and men,
And free the sons of Pennsylvania stand,
Facing the future with a heart elate,
With all things tributary to the brawn
And all things yielding to the ready brain,
Men who ne'er flinched when came the shock of war,
Nor failed in counsels of the days of peace,
Whose handiwork ne'er holding back in stent,
Waxing in fulness with the flight of years,
In yield of forge and furrow, yea, became
The wonder of the sister Commonwealths!
For ours the hidden treasures of the sun,
Waste of vast ages concentrate in coal,
Or in the oily seepage of the rocks,
Or vapored pressures, lo, full fathoms deep,
Pent up, but when released a willing slave
As demon fire, bursting in energy,
Disguised in steam, or unseen current, serves
The whirl and whirr of giant enterprise,
Or bears on wings of light, the spoken word,
Swift as the flash that unrestrained is ruin,
Or in the airy overtones of power,
Knows naught of seas, extent of continents,
Time, space and matter all obliterate.

Heirs to these marvels, sons of those who sought,
As men of conscience and of covenant,
New lands, new lives and newer liberties,
All strains commingled, as the years ran on,
Of Swede or Dutch, of Anglo-Saxon, Celt,
Dark Latin or fair Teuton, at the last
Eventuate in the American?
Divine their quest, in eager discontent,
Unsatisfied, they brake the bonds of age,
And set aloft the newer precedents;
With hand at plow and Bible as their guide,
Their ready compass in the wilderness,
Met barriers but to dash them from their way;
They set their face, as daring mariners
Braving the perils of the unknown deep,
Forever to the welcome of the West,
And tracked the pathway of the setting sun,
Whether on Kittatinny's ridge it sank,
On Appalachia's steepening parapets,
On rolling plain, on Mississippi's breast,
On barrier rock, the serrated divide,
On desert reaches shimmering in the heat,
As pioneers ne'er stayed their hurrying steps,
Till, lo, they faced the ocean and the marge
Of far Pacific's molten mystery!
While others kept the "narrow ways of home,"
Ever concerned in small things as in great,
Plain in their lives, as in their tongue's quaint phrase,
Friendly in word and deed as in their speech,
They "builded better than they knew," and laid
Full broadly planned the great foundation sure,
With "inner light" fore'er the outward guide,
Led by the Man in Holy Writ foreseen,
Who, "diligent in business", unabashed,
Stood in the presence of the lords of earth,
And, ne'er uncovered in the face of kings,
Thrice girt in valor, free from passing fears,
Built, lo, an empire from a favorite's debt!
The Oxford Stripling, who, in waking dream
In "Opening of Joy," saw wilds redeemed,
The valleys peopled and all men at ease,
With strife unknown, all quarrels regulate,
Roundhead in heart, if Royalist in clothes,
With more than idle chivalry in soul,
Who doomed the armor, but to doff the cause,
Who saw beyond the confines of his time—
The narrow vistas of a vicious day—
the vision of an earthly paradise,
Where God in spirit, not through empty form,
Might rule men's hearts and lead there every ways
In paths of pleasantness and fruitful peace,
Justice enthroned and toil full recompensed,
And man for man the equal in all eyes!

The Patriot Soul, who, held in dire duress,
Dungeoned as marplot, with eyes flaming, saw
With soul prophetic and the buring hope,
The swords as plowshares, knives as pruning hooks,
The nations counseling o'er things of ill;
Who laid before those blind a newer chart,
Set out to deaf unwilling ears the rule
Of States in universal parliament,
Decreeing end of wars and welcoming
The universal reign of law and love,
Each, lo, his brother's keeper in all sooth;
The man, who human rights set e'er above
The arrogance of kings, in wanton pride
Exacting Moloch tribute from the mass,
Doomed but to die as rulers might dictate,
Ne'er let red Armaggedons stir his blood,
But lo, exemplar for all time, set out
Fair dealing as the secret of his power;
Who, by the river, 'neath the spreading elm,
As, helpless, lay in infancy the State,
Gave all that benison which still endures,
Nor signed, nor sealed, nor ratified by oath,
Mere clasp of hand, mere spoken promises—
As stolid sachems smoked the pipe of peace—
Few came to witness, yet the whole world rang
With sober tocsin for this thing achieved;
This "truce of God" enduring as His light!
Unbroken friendship, faith inviolate!
O Penn, who in thy heydey felt the wind
Of base ingratitude, life's bitterness,
The cry of envy, snarl of demagogue,
Saw in the little, essence of the great,
In growing colonies in friendly bond
Allied for common weal and common woe,
The greater union of the States to be,
Nor turned aside for any present gain,
"No cross, no crown," thy beaconry of soul,
The long revenge of time hath brought redress,
The scales of justice balance at the last,
Thy mem'ry grows the brighter with time's flight,
And years but press fresh bays upon thy brow,
Thy fame no gilded monument demands,
Since all that men could ask that men requite,
Is thine in this, thy mighty Commonwealth!

Full mindful of the travail and the toil,
We keep the lessons of a pregnant past,
As the long line of hist'ry, shuttle-wise
In web Circean, tells the every deed,
Apples of gold in pictures silvern bright,
Whose ever-haunting memories uplift
And touch the heart and quicken every soul;
As when the hymns of Ephrata fell sweet
From summer cloister at the hush of eve,
Or chorales from the spires of Bethlehem
Woke the chill air of dawn at Eastertide,
Or the long chant Gregorian that rose
In chapeled sequence with the sweet incense blent,
Or moving silence of the meeting house,
All tell anew their message to this day.
And proud, the humblest, 'neath the spreading flag,
Whose stars and stripes took ordered semblance here,
E'er thrills before the hall and inner shrine,
Where Independence blazed its newer way
And Liberty was clarioned by the Bell,
Which, lo, unsounding, yet is far from mute
And still proclaims throughout the listening land
The story of July, of those who signed
The Declaration, fairest testament;
Brief the device that made a people free,
Mere ink and parchment, yet whose words of fire
Beaconed revolt on every hill and wave,
And loud the call to service, nor in vain,
As, lo, Paoli speaks and Brandywine;
And where the stream ran dimpling past the Forge,
The little Valley shut in rolling hills,
Mount Joy, Mount Misery, forenamed by Penn
As if in prescience of the thing to be,
The misery of bodies racked by pain,
As patriot soldiers tracked in blood the snow,
The joy in yielding all for common good,
Living or dying at their country's call,
Their challenge rings out clear forever more,
And 'midst his troops, with head oft bowed in prayer,
Lo, Pennsylvania knew a Washington!

And when through sharp dissent, men not at one,
And dim the lesson of the fathers grew,
And civil strife arose and call to arms,
True ever to its long heroic past,
Lo, Pennsylvania set its face fore'er
Against the loosening of sacred bonds,
The Union over all, inseparate,
From its escrutcheon cleansed all passing stain—
No mere surveyor's line a bar to hope,
Mason and Dixon cutting continent,
As barrier between enslaved and free,
The latitude of full despair for men—
And proved her full devotion on the field
Where now on rounded knoll and long-stretched ridge,
And gentler slope of orchard and of field,
The serried ranks of memoried shafts arise,
And tell in stone the tale of Gettysburg,
Supreme God's Acre of our native soil,
To human valor ever dedicate;
Valor in those who lost, in those who won,
When the fierce battle surges swept the crest
And high-tide of rebellion rose in flood—
To ebb forever from that fateful day!
And Pennsylvania knew its later sons
Were worthy of their past and their great sires,
Wayne and St. Clair and Muhlenberg awake,
And quickened in the spirit of a Meade!
At rest, the dead, by Lincoln consecrate,
Sealed by the blood of his own martyrdom,
Forever hallowed lie, the living bound
To new resolves by this great sacrifice!

So, proud, we sons of Pennsylvania come,
Proud of the teeming life that daily pours
Through all the arteries of busy marts,
Whose products know the spume of seven seas,
The bounds of ocean and the nether Pole;
Whose letteers—freed from servile bonds fore'er
When Franklin, glorifying common sense,
Drew more than quips from dull, unthinking type,
And more than sceptres from the tyrant's hands
And more than lightning from the frowning skies—
Have touched all strings of art and poesy
And run the circle of the sciences,
High priestnesses of higher things of mind;
Whose art with lengthening years gives poise to life,
Whose labor yields reward to opulence,
Whose cities vie in splendor as resounds
From West to East the rhythmic piston beat,
From North to South the busy hum of loom,
And, lo, the "city of a thousand trades,"
Of pageants brave and famed centennials,
Fair Philadelphia gems the eastern bound;
While where the iron hisses, hammers trip
In cadence, hymning song of Tubalcain,
Pittsburgh, enwreathed, looms dark on western rim,
Whose heights and valleys lose their pristine mien
Transformed by wand of industry, and show
The pillar of smoke by day, of fire by night
Proclaiming, here, the mighty age of steel,
Whose spider webs athart, the gorge or stream,
Or lined in parallel, 'cross every reach,
Give open way to man; or, raised on high,
In square of frame and rigid warp and woof,
Full Babel-like, assault the very skies,
And conqueror, man, with nature in his leash,
Advances to new triumphs unrestrained.

But woe to those who let the low and crude
Press to obliteration of the soul,
Enthrone the brazen calf with feet of clay,
Who know, in things of state, nor gold from dross,
Nor counterfeit from that that rings full true,
Seek rule by clamor and the screaming mob!
And yield the prompting of the heart enriched
For every wheeze of doctrine that outflares,
Forget the discipline of open mind,
For brawling babblings of the open mouth,
And fooled by every nostrum, cried aloud,
Give up the old lamp for the glittering new,
The shadow for the substance held in hand.
But Pennsylvania needs but keep the faith,
To her own precedents be ever true
And still exalted set on high, 'bove all,
In forefront of the Union, unsurpassed,
An empiry of men of millioned might,
Her testimony glows as newer dawn,
And all acclaim her actions "wise and just."
Still Keystone of the soaring arch of States,
Uplifting all upon her massy quoins,
Taking the crushing strain in equal parts,
She bears the double burden of the vault,
Without her all were weakness, jumbled stone,
The scattered shreds in huge, unmeasured wreck.
But with her all in ordered grandeur rise,
The admiration of the elder earth!

So ye who 'midst the splendors of a day,
The flashing glory of these palaces,
Fleeting ephemerids of dreams come true,
Would in this fair pavilion dedicate
This building to the State fore'er beloved,
Remember, that, its "day of small things" past,
All men give ear when Pennsylvania calls,
Yea, gates fly ope when Pennsylvania knocks,
Yea, fanfares sound when Pennsylvania acts,
And in the nation, as in concourse here,
Where all the world throngs to her festival,
To yield just due, all shout in glad accord,
Hail, Pennsylvania, Hail, above all, Hail!

So, sons of no mean Commonwealth, we come
From Eastern portals to the Western gate;
As those of old who cried "Romanus sum,"
So we exultant speak the name of State,
Proclaim the great "experiment" that wrought,
As if by necromance 'mong doubting men,
Fruition sure—beyond his ardent thought,
Yet hidden in the very heart of Penn!
And bear the message, flash it sea to sea,
Who freedom serve must of themselves be free!

We thank Thee, Oh God, as we stand in Thy presence this morning, that we can pray for thy richest blessings to rest upon each of us. We would remember this morning the members who are absent on account of death in the families. We pray Thee for these bereaved families this morning, for these absent members; May the blessings of God rest upon them and may Thy spirit guide them and may they realize that all things work together for good to them that love God.

Bless the Speaker this day in his deliberations; give him strength of body and clearness of mind in order that he may lead this House to do such things as will meet with the approval of men and of Thee. Guide us in all that we do, by Thy spirit, and save us all with the power of an endless life, we ask for Christ's sake, Amen.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. LIPSCHUTZ. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up from page 10 of today's calendar Senate Bill No. 13, House Bill No. 873.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 873 (Senate Bill No. 13), entitled:

An Act relating to and regulating partnerships

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LIPSCHUTZ. Mr. Speaker, this is a uniform partnership bill. It was presented to the Senate by a commission appointed consisting of Judge Staake, of Philadelphia, Walter George Smith of Philadelphia, Dr. William Draper Lewis of Philadelphia, and the Deputy Attorney General Hargest. This bill has the endorsement of the Pennsylvania Bar Association which is composed of members of the Bar of the entire State of Pennsylvania. It is a bill making the partnership law uniform, and is a step in the right direction.

The Uniform Partnership Act is so recommended by the Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. It is primarily a statement of the result of the decisions of our courts. The act, however, if adopted, would make the following changes in existing law:

(1) Section 12.

This section makes a person admitted into a partnership liable for all the obligations of the partnership arising before his admission, but declares that this liability shall be satisfied only out of partnership property.

Under existing law a partner who is admitted into a partnership is not liable for debts contracted before his admission.

The reason for the change suggested is that when a partner is admitted to a firm and acquires an interest in firm property he acquires a right to have all the property in the firm devoted to the payment of a firm debt for which he is liable. As under existing law he is not liable for debts contracted before his admission, creditors who have extended credit to the business after his admission have to be paid in full before prior creditors of the business receive anything. To avoid this hardship on the prior creditors, the incoming partner is made liable to them to the extent of his interest in firm property. An incoming partner can protect himself by insisting that the firm debts be liquidated prior to his admission.

See for more extended discussion note to this section on page 33 of annotated edition of act published by Commissioners; also volume 24 District Reports (No. 7) Legal Intelligencer Reprint, pages V, VI.

(2) Section 26.

This section declares that a partner's interest in the partnership is personal property.

In Pennsylvania and in some other States the court has held that on the death of a partner, if part of the partnership property is real estate, the amount of the debts of the partnership shall be subtracted first from the personal property belonging to the partnership, and the partner's interest in the remaining property shall be regarded as real estate to the extent to which it is actually real estate. Thus if a partnership has land to the value of $10,000, and personal property to the value of $10,000, and the debts amount of $8,000, one of the partners dying, his interest in the partnership would be regarded as ten-twelfths or five-sixths real property and two-twelfths or one-sixth personal property. The attempt to administer this complicated rule, especially where under the partnership agreement the business is continued after the death of a partner, has resulted in much confusion. The rule as expressed in the proposed statute does away with these complications. It is already the law in many states of the United States, and no complaint has arisen from its operation.

For further discussion see volume 24, District Reports (No. 7) The Legal Intelligencer Supplement, page VI.

(3) Section 34 (b), lines 9 to 11.

This clause provides that where the dissolution of a partnership is by the death or bankruptcy of a partner, and one of the remaining partners makes a contract for the carrying on of the partnership business in ingnorance of the death or bankruptcy he may call upon his other partners to share with him the resulting liability.

At present when a partnership is dissolved by death or bankruptcy all the partners must "take notice" of the death or bankruptcy and if one of them in actual ignorance of the dissolution makes a partnership contract, he alone is liable.

The change was made because the Commissioners believed that where a partner acts for the partnership bona fide and in ignorance of the death or bankruptcy of one of his co-partners, it is unjust to prevent him from calling on his co-partners to share in the liability which he has thus innocently incurred. The rule in agency is as expressed in the act, and as this branch of the law of partnership is really the law of agency the present partnership rule may be regarded as an anomoly.

See for more extended discussion pages 57 and 58 of the annotated edition of the act issued by the Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

(4) Section 41.

This section expresses the principle that when a partner retires from a firm or a new partner is admitted to a firm and there is no liquidation of the affairs of the partnership dissolved by such change in the personnel of the owners of the business, and the business is continued by one or more of the partners, either alone or with others, the creditors of the dissolved partnership are creditors of the person or partnership so continuing the business.

At present when a man advances money to a partnership composed of A, B and C and A retires, or D is admitted to the business, the person who extended credit to the partnership of A, B and C is not a creditor of the new partnership, though he is a creditor of all but one of the members of the new partnership. On the other hand, the property of the old partnership is often regarded as the property of the new partnership, the practical result being that creditors who extended their credit after the change of personnel have a right to exhaust the entire property in the business to the exclusion of those who advanced credit prior to the change in partnership. This rule has resulted in much hardship and confusion. It is the belief of the Commissioners that they have solved the difficulties involved by declaring that the creditors of the first partnership, that is those who extended credit prior to the admission or retirement of a partner, are creditors of the second partnership. This will enable all the property in the business, in case of failure, to be divided pro rata between all the creditors who have extended their credit to the business.

For more extended explanation see pages 69 and 70 of the annotated edition of the act issued by the Commissioners, and volume 24 of the District Reports (No. 7) The Legal Intelligencer Reprint, pages V and VI.

(5) The act also changes the procedure by which the separate judgment creditor of the partner secures the interest of his debtor in partnership property. The new method of procedure is set forth on pages 13 and 14, Section 28. Should the act with this section be adopted the procedure on a separate creditor securing a judgment against a partner would be as follows: The plaintiff's creditor would at once ask the court for an order, designated in the act as a charging order, charging the interest of the debtor partner in the partnership with the payment of the unsatisfied amount of such judgment. This order would be served on the other partners. The court would have a right to order the sale of the interest of the partner in the partnership, or in its discretion, to appoint a receiver to receive the debtor's share of the profits as they accrued, or direct their payment directly to the debtor partner. The other partners would have a right, in case a sale was ordered, to use partnership property in the purchase of the interest of the debtor partner.

This procedure has several practical advantages over existing procedure under the act of the eighth of April, 1873, chief of which is that it enables the court to prevent the dissolution of the partnership when no good purpose can be served by such dissolution, and it enables a valuation of the interest of the debtor partner to be made prior to sale. Under our present procedure the sale is made before the value of the interest is ascertained by bill in equity, a method of procedure which is unfair alike to the judgment creditor and the judgment debtor. It is recommended that as the procedure to secure the partner's interest for the separate judgment creditor is completely covered by Section 28 the final section of the act is printed, page 26, Section 45, as amended by striking out the words "all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed" and substituting a definite repeal of the act approved the eighth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, entitled "An act supplementary to an act relating to executions passed sixteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-six".

The procedure proposed in Section 28, while new to this State, is not an experiment. It has been in force in England for many years, and the Commissioners are informed that it has worked well, doing away with the difficulties which once there, as now in this state, surrounded this old common law procedure.

See for further discussion on the subject the annotated edition of the Act issued by the Commissioners, page 51.

The Pennsylvania Commissioners are also recommending the specific repeal of the Act of 1870, April sixth, Pamphlet Laws 56, Section 1: Pepper and Lewis Digest of Laws, column 5623, Section 16.

This act, which is copied from Lord Bovill's act in England provides that any person loaning money to a partnership and agreeing to receive a share of the profits of the partnership in lieu of interest, shall not by such agreement become liable as a partner to the other creditors of the partnership. There is a proviso that the agreement shall be in writing and that the act shall not apply to any partner who makes such a loan, or to any person who holds himself out as partner. It is further provided that any person so loaning money holding himself out as a partner shall be liable as a partner. This act is rendered obsolete by the provisions of the Uniform Partnership Act, Section 7 (4 a, d) lines 19 and 23.

"The receipt by a person of a share of the profits of a business is prima facie evidence that he is a partner in the business, but no such inference shall be drawn if such profits were received in payment:

(a) As a debt by installments or otherwise,

(d) As interest on a loan, though the amount of payment vary with the profits of the business."

The Uniform Partnership Act goes one step further than the Act of 1870, because it does not provide that the agreement for loan shall be in writing. This provision of the Act of 1870 is most troublesome, because it apparently makes the lender to a partnership, who takes profits instead of interest, a partner if the evidence of his debt is not in writing. In view of the confused wording of the Act of 1870, and the fact that its object is entirely covered by the Uniform Partnership Act, it would be better to specifically repeal it.

The following are some of the uncertainties in the existing law which would be done away with by the adoption of the Partnership Act.

(1) Section 10. This section does away with many of the existing uncertainties surrounding the subject of the conveyance of real property belonging to the partnership.

(2) Section 21, Paragraph 1. At present it is not clear whether the obligations to account where the partner has money or other property in his hands belonging to the partnership, is or is not an obligation in the nature of a trust. The act makes it certain that it is an obligation in the nature of a trust.

(3) Section 27 makes it clear that a conveyance by a partner of his interest in the partnership does not of itself dissolve the partnership unless he or his partners desire a dissolution to take place. Most actual assignments of partnership interests in a partnership are assignments by way of collateral security for a loan. The partner so assigning does not desire to dissolve the partnership and the presumption of law which is generally held to exist that he does dissolve partnership by such an assignment has produced considerable hardship.

(4) Section 35 clears up the doubt whether persons who have had any kind of dealing with a partnership can hold the partners by a contract made by one of them after dissolution unless the others have given notice of the dissolution. Under the Act it is made certain that only those persons who have had dealings by which a credit was extended to the partnership have to have had notice of the dissolution. To all others a notice of dissolution advertised in a newspaper of general circulation of the place or places where the partnership business was regularly carried on, is sufficient. This section taken in connection with the definition of "notice" on page 2, Section 3, also makes clear, that which is not always clear at present, what has to be done by anyone who desires to claim the benefit of having given notice.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 889, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as amended by providing for the education of certain blind children beyond the age of eight years under certain circumstances

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend Title, Line 3, by striking out the word "the"
Amend Section 1, Line 35, by inserting after the word "dollar" the figures "($1,00)."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 545, entitled:

An Act to supervise the operations of fire insurance rate-making bureaus and providing for their examination by the Insurance Commissioner prohibiting discrimination in fixing and collecting fire insurance rates requiring companies to maintain and co-operate in maintaining and operating rate-making bureaus requiring inspection and survey by such bureaus of all risks specifically rated and regulating agreements between companies or other insurers with respect to fixing and collecting fire insurance rates and repealing existing laws.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WALTER. Mr Speaker, I would be pleased if the gentleman from Delaware who introduced this bill will explain it to the House.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I will try to explain it to the House in just as short a way as possible. The proposition contained in this bill is this: The insurance Commissioners of the United States have for a number of years been trying to devise some method of controlling fire insurance rating bureaus. Two years ago the Legislature appointed a commission to take up this subject and this bill is the result, not only of the investigation of the commission but embodies entirely the recommendation of the fire insurance commissioners of the United States. At the present time we have in the State of Pennsylvania, what are known as fire rating bureaus. There are four in the State. It has been conceded in almost every state where the subject has been investigated that they are essential to the economic management of fire insurance companies, but there has been no restriction or regulation of these rating bureaus in the State of Pennsylvania. This bill is intended to give the Fire Insurance Commissioner of the State the power to regulate those companies and to prevent discrimination. Now, that is the object of the bill and the best thought of the Fire Insurance Commission of the United States and the Commission which investigated the matter is contained in the proposition. Now, if there is any criticism on any particular section of the bill I would be glad to explain it to the House.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Speaker I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether this bill will prohibit the making of different rates by different agents or different companies or will it cut out competition.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, not in the least. I think if the gentleman will read the bill carefully he will find—I think it is in section six,—it provides that a rating bureau may consist of one company. Now a rating bureau in the last anyalysis, is only the fixing of rates on fire insurance that that company will charge. It will require that hereafter if a company desires—not applying to mutual companies in any way—if a company desires to go on and do business on its own account, not be connected with a rating bureau, it shall simply file rates with the Insurance Commissioner and if it discriminates the insurer can make complaint against it to the Insurance Commissioner and prevent discrimination by the company individually or prevent discrimination by the bureau or combination of companies.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERMAN. Do I understand the gentleman from Delaware to say that this bill has no relation whatever to mutual companies?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I say that it in no way regulates the premium of mutual fire insurance companies in the State of Pennsylvania.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—1.

Rich,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affrmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 824, entitled:

An Act providing that all horsedrawn vehicles owned or operated by persons residing in all cities of the first and second class except those used for pleasure shall have on the sides of such vehicles in legible letters the name and address of the owner together with a designating number if more than one vehicle is used providing for arrest and proceedings for violation of the act prescribing the penalties therefor

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. THEODORE CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question, of agreeing to the motion,

A division was called for and 72 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 69 in the negative,

The question was determined in the affirmative, and the motion agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 491 (Senate Bill No. 48), entitled:

An Act to amend section one of an act entitled "An Act to amend section one of an act entitled 'An act providing for the appointment of assistant district attorneys in the several counties of this Commonwealth having seven hundred and fifty thousand and less than one million two hundred thousand inhabitants prescribing the powers and duties and fixing the salaries of the said assistant district attorneys' approved the twenty-fifth day of April Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred seven so as to increase the salary of the first assistant district attorney and to provide for the classification of the other assistant district attorney for whose appointment provision is made by said act as second third and fourth assistants and assistants and to increase the salary of some and to decrease the salary of others of said district attorneys" approved May sixth Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred nine so as to increase the salary of some of the assistant district attorneys and to provide for the appointment of two or more assistant district attorneys and fixing the salaries of the same

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to the passage of this bill for one reason: The salaries are too high. We find that the first assistant district attorney gets six thousand dollars a year, which is a thousand dollars a year more than the amount received by the judge of the county court, and I think the judge of the county court gets enough. I think this salary is too much. I want to say further that friends of mine in this House are back of this bill, the men are particular friends of mine, but that does not influence my vote in this House. I am going to vote as my conscience dictates and I think the majority of the people expect us to do that. We are constantly creating new jobs and we are boosting the man that gets a big salary. Do you ever think of the man that gets two dollars or less a day or of a man who gets two dollars a day who gets a raise? I say he does; they raise his rent.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Baker,	Reel,	Rothenberger,	Sones,
Brosius,	Robertson,	Sampsel,	Statler,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 737, entitled:

An Act authorizing municipalities to purchase the entire capital stock of bridge companies owning bridges situated wholly or partly within the limits of such municipalities and exempting the capital stock and bonds of such companies from State taxation

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I would be pleased to have the sponsor of this bill explain its object and why these bonds should be exempt from State taxation.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allengheny, Mr. Stein, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, certainly. Will the gentleman please state again his question?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the genteman from Allegheny to state why these bonds should be exempt from State taxation and the general purpose of the bill. I want to know what I am voting on.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, answering my worthy colleague from Allegheny, if he will kindly take the trouble to read the bill he will find the complete answer within the four corners of the bill itself. The bill itself simply enables cities of the second class to purchase outright the whole of the capital stock of certain bridges now operating within the municipal limits. The purpose of such purchase would be to enable the city to maintain the bridge free and without toll. There are now within the City of Pittsburgh some bridges that are still charging toll in violation as we think, of the spirit of the times. We believe that all bridges within the city limits should be free. This bill will permit the City of Pittsburgh and Scranton, if it so desires, to purchase outright all the capital stock of bridge companies operating within their limits and make the bridges free to the public. Under such circumstances it would be manifestly unfair that the city should be compelled to pay a State tax on the capital stock of a bridge company that is not producing any revenue or profit; and I take it that my good friend from Allegheny, who is interested so much in the interests of the common people, should be willing to give his vote and influence in support of this bill.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, my colleague from Allegheny has convinced me that his bill is fair and just and I will vote for it.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—4.

Diefenderfer,	Glenn,	Gormley,	Statler,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 760, entitled:

An Act providing for the alteration of the boundaries of counties in certain cases and for the adjustment of the indebtedness thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman to tell us what localities of the State are effected by this bill?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, I do not suppose that this bill would affect any other county in the State of Pennsylvania. If you read the preamble attached to the bill in my particular district which is Philadelphia county adjoining Montgomery county which is the district of our present speaker Mr. Ambler, there is a certain portion of Montgomery County in his district that is completely insolated from his own district. The people in that particular district asked this permission in this enunabling act, so that they might, if they so desired ask the court by two-thirds of the voters and two-thirds of the real estate owners, of that particular portion affected, to have a decree so that they might become annexed to the County of Philadelphia. This bill is not affecting Philadelphia county. It was submitted to the Speaker and held under advisement for two weeks or more and then he requested me to introduce the bill. It only affects a small portion between Montgomery and Philadelphia counties, which the people in Montgomery county agreed to in case the court decrees it.

Mr. WALTER. Mr Speaker, It seems to me impossible that this House or any part of it can say to what extent this bill may affect each and every county in the state. You can see for yourselves it invokes, and I believe, it could be invoked in almost every county in the State, it would be cumbersome and in the end useless. A prominent citizen in one corner of the county can make trouble in the courts for five years under the provisions of this bill, and unless there is an exlellent reason for putting this bill on the statute books, it ought not to pass.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO STATE HIGHWAYS.

Mr. H. I. WILSON offered the following resolution which was twice read by the Clerk:

HOUSE RESOLUTION.

In the House of Representatives, March 24, 1915.

Whereas, Under the provisions of an act, approved the thirty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred eleven, popularly known as the Sproul Bill, approximately eight thousand five hundred miles of State highways were provided for as the beginning of a state highway system covering substantially the main highways of the State; and

Whereas, By two amendments thereto, enacted at the session of one thousand nine hundred thirteen approximately fifteen hundred miles additional state highway were added to the existing state highway system, such additional highways to be taken over on June fifteen, one thousand nine hundred fifteen; and

Whereas, Prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred fifteen the State Highway Department was handicapped in the administrated of the state highway system by inability to use funds appropriated therefor; and

Whereas, Owing to the failure of the people to approve the proposed amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania whereby the sum of fifty million dollars was to be available for the use of the highways of Pennsylvania the State Highway Department was unable to secure sufficient funds to carry out the plan already outlined; and

Whereas, Throughout the length and breadth of Pennsylvania there have been and are now at the present time going on earnest discussions as to the highway policy that Pennsylvania should adopt in order to bring herself abreast with her sister States in constructing and maintaining a modern and efficient system of highways; and

Whereas, Time is going on and there is no evidence to the public that the General Assembly has taken any action or devised any comprehensive policy looking to a proper state highway system; and

Whereas, If work is not commenced soon upon the public highways by the State Highway Department much valuable time will be lost, much money wasted and the agricultural and other interests of the State retarded and injured; and

Whereas, At the present time approximately the sum of eight hundred thousand dollars is available for use on the state highway system in the hands of the State Highway Department for purposes of repair and upkeep; therefor

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, That it is the sense of this House that the entire mileage of the state highway system as originally outlined in the Sproul Road Bill and as subsequently increased by the General Assembly of one thousand nine hundred thirteen, be kept intact as a nucleus for a state highway policy and system and that the State Highway Department be directed to proceed at the earliest possible date in the actual work of repair and maintenance of the various roads comprising the state highway system; and, be it further resolved,

That in the expenditure of the various sums of money coming into the hands of the State Highway Department available for road or repair purposes that the State Highway Department endeavor to put as much of the money in actual constructive and repair work as the needs of the road require.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I do not desire to ask for unanimous consent to have this resolution considered at this time.

The SPEAKER. The Resolution will lie over for printing.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to notify the House that the rules provide for a session at 8 o'clock on Monday night, and that we will have a large calendar.

On the question recurring.

Will the House agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk notify the Senate accordingly.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 517, File Folio 1955, on page 8 of to-day's calendar, Bills on Third Reading Postponed for the Present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on the third reading of House Bill No. 517, entitled:

An Act prohibiting any city county or municipality from imposing or collcting any license fee or tax upon insurance companies or their agents or insurance brokers licensed to transact business by the Insurance Commissioner

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Section 1, line 6, by striking out after the word "fee" the words "or tax."

Amend title to House Bill No. 517 by striking out after the word "fee" the words "or tax."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to on third reading.

The SPEAKER. Inasmuch as this is merely a striking out, the bill can be considered on final passage at this time.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call the attention of the House to the fact that this is the bill that we were discussing the other day, and which relates to the taxation, or a license tax, upon the part of boroughs and municipalities,—I might say cities and municipalities. As I explained the other day, at present, agents and brokers handling fire insurance business are required to pay a license fee to the State. The fee to represent a company, paid into the State, is two dollars, and the brokerage fee is ten dollars. If this bill passes, it is intended to prohibit any city, borough or other municipality, from adding any additional tax in the nature of a license fee or tax. Now, you are all interested in this bill, I expect, because you all have boroughs or cities in your respective districts. If you pass this bill it will mean that your borough or city cannot impose any additional tax on fire insurance agents and brokers. Personally I think it is wise, but I want the House to exercise its own opinion in the matter. That is all there is in the bill and I think you are all interested in it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 921, as follows:

An Act requiring each city of the second and third class to establish a municipal pension fund for employes of said city and regulating the payment of such pensions excepting the employes of the bureaus of police fire and electricity who are eligible to the pension funds of said bureaus

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That cities of the second and third class shall create a municipal pension fund for the pensioning of all employes who have given twenty years of service in said city excepting the employes of the bureaus of police fire and electricity who are eligible to the pension funds of said bureaus No employe under the age of fifty years shall be pensioned unless such employe is totally and permanently disabled

Section 2 Cities of the second and third class shall set aside and appropriate a sum not to exceed one-half of one per centum of all taxes for such municipal pension fund

Section 3 The employes shall contribute one per centum of their salaries each succeeding month until they retire on pension when such contribution shall cease

Section 4 The pension allowed shall be one-half of the salary received for the two years previous to their retirement Provided however the pension shall not exceed one hundred dollars per month

Section 5 All acts and parts of acts inconsitent with this act are repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, as I read this bill it has the earmarks of the most dangerous kind of legislation. It provides that every employe of a city of the second and third classes shall be pensioned, or in other words, every fellow who has had a good job for twenty years shall be pensioned, and in addition to that, it provides that the cities shall set aside five mills from out the taxes. It does seem to me that would be a pernicious piece of legislation. The fees or wages that these employes have been getting have been more than those fellows could have gotten perhaps at any other job for this entire period, and now at the end of twenty years after they have had a snap, we propose to give them a pension for the balance of their lives. Would that be right? There comes a time when a man has feasted at the public crib so long that he feels that the State or the county or the township owes him a living. It applies to the employes of cities, but it ought to apply to townships and boroughs and every person, and think what it means. We to-day are so burdened and overburdened with taxes that we are barely able to pay our taxes. Why should we require any city to add to its fund five more mills in order to pension some one who has had a mighty good job for twenty years. The principle is fundamentally wrong. I have in mind two men—they were perhaps on equal terms mentally and physically and in the matter of ability about on equal terms. One man got a job in a city and by political chicanery managed to have his wages raised until he is now getting three thousand dollars. The other man the same ability is still working for less than one thousand dollars, but he has managed to accumulate a little property. Now we are going to tax him five mills in order to pay that other man a pension. It seems to me absurd. Two historians that I know of, say that the cause of the downfall of Greece was the fact that every man attempted and succeeded in getting on the payroll, and it seems to me if we pass this bill and follow out this kind of legislation that it spells disaster for this nation.

MR. REYNOLDS IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, this bill was introduced at the request of the municipal pension employes of Pittsburgh and cities of the second class and, upon request from a number of men representing cities of the second class who thought very favorably of this measure, I amended the bill at their suggestion. Now, in the City of Pittsburgh we have a municipal pension association and it has been established for some three or four years. There is nothing in this bill that compels any man to become a member of this association and it is a matter of choice with the employe if he wants to join or not. There is nothing compulsory about it. Now as to the amount set aside for this fund, I want to say to the gentleman from Westmoreland, that if he reads that section he will find that his borough officials and councils of cities of the third class that this section reads "cities of the second class shall set aside and appropriate a sum not to exceed one-half of one per cent." The point "not to exceed"—they could if they chose appropriate or lay aside five dollars for this fund, or a dollar and a half or one-sixteenth or one-twentieth of one per cent. It specifies "not to exceed one-half," so if the people in third class cities do not want or would not arrange for the employes banding together in an association, if the council in third class cities would only appropriate two dollars and a half the result would be that they would have no fund to help them along or guide them, and so far as taking care of a man who has worked twenty years or more if he has been on the payroll during that time, is concerned the fact that he has served a city or municipality for twenty years under different changes of administration is the best evidence of his ability and of his deserving of a pension. I want to say further that it has come to the time that nearly all large corporations now are looking after their men, and the man who has served twenty years faithfully is certainly entitled to some consideration.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geary, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. SNYDER. What peculiarly special service has the employe of the city rendered the country, that he should deserve a pension over and above other people?

Mr. GEARY. I would not say that they deserve any special recognition, but the fact that all large corporations nowadays are recognizing that a man having served twenty years in the employ of any one firm, that they would take care of him in his old age. It is a move, too, in the proper way of securing better men and, also in an efficiency manner, it produces better results. When a man knows that, after the end of twenty years that he is going to be taken care of properly and that he will be provided for in the way that he would be clothed and get enough to eat later on, it is going to make him put more energy in his job.

Mr. BARNETT. Mr. Speaker, I want to say that the principle of this bill is bad. It is not only bad in its present application but it is an entering wedge for other bills of a like character for this session or at some future session. The man who in his position as my worthy colleague has said is well paid and paid way beyond the ordinary, now this proposition to pay him still more is on the line of a fellow who was all the time begging tobacco from his friends —a chew of tobacco until one day one of his friends said he would put a stop to it, and he gave him a whole plug of tobacco. The fellow did not bother his friend until the plug was gone, then he went back to the one who had given him the plug of tobacco, and said, "one good turn deserves another, give me another plug of tobacco."

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, to my mind this is a very meritorious measure. In fact, I thought it was so meritorious that I was personally responsible for inserting the amendment making the measure apply to third class cities.

The gentleman has refererred to the fact that a certain city official in his city received $3,000 a year salary. Now this may be true, gentlemen, but I believe that every member of this House will bear me out that if this municipality pays this official $3,000, that that official could earn $3,000 in private life. Now this person serves his municipality faithfully for twenty years or practically a life time. His whole line of thought and action is centered in that one thing. At the end of twenty years he is eliminated from office. I would like the gentleman to tell me what else this man could do to earn a livelihood.

Another matter, gentlemen, the municipality does not pay the entire pension under the provisions of this bill. The individual pays a portion of the pension which he is to receive after having served twenty years, and I can see no reason why every liberal minded man in this House should not support this measure.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

The SPEAKER declared the ayes appeared to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, ninety-seven gentlemen voting in the affirmative and thirty-seven in the negative.

And the question was determined in the affirmative.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WILLIAMS. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cox, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman to give the House his thought as to the constitutionality of this bill, direct reference being had to Article 3, Section 18, which prohibits the appropriation of State funds for pension purposes except for military services; and also to ask him to indicate to the House what it will cost the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for a year to carry out the provisions of this bill.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman from Tioga I would state that I am not a lawyer, but under the recent decisions of the Supreme and Superior Courts it is a question to the average layman what the Constitution means.

As far as the amount of money that is to be appropriated goes, I have never received those figures, but I do say, Mr. Speaker, that I believe it is not of such a large amount of money that would stop this House in voting for this bill. This bill was presented by me at the request of the police chiefs of the State of Pennsylvania who, in convention, agreed to ask the State of Pennsylvania to perpetuate the police pension fund. The police pension fund in the City of Pittsburgh was started something fourteen years ago. As it grows older, naturally, the amount of money required grows larger; and so in Philadelphia. I believe, outside the question as to the constitutionality of this bill, this House should pass it. I do not believe that they are asking anything that is unjust and I will ask every fair-minded member to cast his vote in favor of this bill.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, for the information of the House let me read just this extract from the Constitution:

"No appropriations, except for pensions or gratuities for military services, shall be made—"

Mr. Speaker, there is a condition confronting this Legislature which it cannot dodge and which was presented prominently to us in the address of retiring Governor Tener and Governor Brumbaugh in his Inaugural Address, and that was the reduced financial condition of the State. Two years ago the Legislature was asked, in order to relieve Philadelphia from her financial embarrassment, to take from the State $1,250,000, in the form of the State tax on personal property and make a county tax. The result was that it increased the revenues of Philadelphia nearly half a million dollars and gave them greatly increased borrowing capacity with which to increase their bonded indebtedness and carry forward the desired municipal improvements. The result—hear the gentleman from Philadelphia indicating that I am mistaken—Mr. Speaker, for years seventy-five per cent. of the personal property tax, amounting to $5,000,000 per year was turned over to the counties and the act of two years ago applied to the twenty-five per cent. remaining or $1,250,000 per year. At the same time, in the 1913 session, there was enacted what is known throughout the rural districts as the "Jones Township Road Law." That law pledges the Commonwealth to pay into the ownship Treasuries fifty per cent. of the township taxes levied, collected and used on the township roads. In order to carry out the provisions of that bill I introduced an appropriation bill carrying $2,500,000 with which to pay the townships what the State obligated itself to pay under that act and the Governor, from the lack of revenue, reduced that amount to $250,000 and today the townships of our State, many of them, have been compelled to borrow money to make up for the deficiency caused by the State being unable to pay what was due them under the Jones Act.

Had we not passed this personal property tax law turning back to the counties this four-mill tax or seventy-five per cent. of it, the State would have been in shape to have fulfilled its obligation to the townships.

This year Philadelphia is asking, and properly so, for $1,000,000 for the improvement of the Philadelphia harbor, something that the people of the whole State of Pennsylvania are interested in. The County of Allegheny is asking for an appropriation of several hundred thousand dollars to carry on the work of constructing the proposed Lake Erie and Ohio Canal project. That is an enterprise in which the people of the whole State of Pennsylvania are interested. Philadelphia is asking for increased appropriations for the University of Pennsylvania, for Temple University and for the other commendable institutions, and what they are asking for, other counties throughout the State are asking for. The gentleman from Union and the gentleman from Jefferson are asking this Legislature to appropriate money to pension soldiers of the Civil War. We also want money for the improvement of the highways of the State and for State College, that institution which is doing such a grand work along educational lines for the young men of the rural districts; so that there are demands being made from every quarter for appropriations for developing of our State, as well as for the educational and charitable institutions of the State.

Mr. Speaker, I am not opposed to pensioning the policemen in the cities of this Commonwealth, but I am opposed to taking this money from the State's share of its revenue. I have no objection if this bill were amended to take from the liquor license funds paid into the cities two, three, four, five per cent. of the amount of it. As you all know, in the cities of the retail liquor license fee amounts to $1100 a year. Of that amount the State gets $100 and the city $1,000. Now it would be entirely proper for a bill to be passed, and it would relieve the obligation, to take a part of the city's share of the license fund and turn it over for the local police fund. The departments of our State are demanding increased appropriations in order that they may give the people of the State the greatest degree of efficiency.

As I said before, I am not opposed to this pension law but I am opposed to taking the money from the funds of the Commonwealth, with which to carry out the provisions of this bill which will cost the State practically $60,000 per year, especially when we are confronted with reduced revenues as the result of the depression in business throughout the State.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call the attention of the House to the fact that if it is unconstitutional now in this bill, to appropriate money to the police Pension Fund, how in the world, in the Act of 1913, when we appropriated two hundred thousand dollars to the Mothers Pension Fund,—why wasn't that unconstitutional? Gentlemen, I believe we are haggling over a very small point as to the constitutionality of this act. When it comes to the taking of money from the liquor licenses in the cities, you must agree with me that the city does help the Police Pension Fund and contributes largely to it, not only in Philadelphia, but also in Pittsburgh.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, like the gentleman from Philadelphia, I am not a lawyer, and I cannot give a legal interpretation to the constitution of this State, but I can read, and I think with some degree of intelligence and as I previously stated I believe this bill to be clearly unconstitutional.

On the question recurring,

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar, and I will briefly state my reasons. This bill has been considerably changed——

The SPEAKER. The Chair would inform the gentleman that the motion is not debatable. Is the motion seconded?

Mr. GARNER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The motion was not agreed to.

The bill was then agreed to on third reading.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, this bill is known as the "Practice" Act. For the benefit of the members of this House, so that they can understand the purport of the bill, I desire at this time to make what explanation is necessary concerning its provisions. When this bill was originally introduced it was for the purpose of dealing with the question of all kinds of practices in the courts of common pleas of this Commonwealth. The bill was referred to the Committee on Judiciary General and laid there without any request for a hearing from any source whatsoever for a period of over five weeks, in order that the members of this House who are attorneys, might get in touch with their constituency and the courts in the districts which they represent, so that any objections to the bill might be crystalized.

As a result of that there were some objections to the bill on account of its wide scope. Those objections seem to be proper objections to myself, who is the sponsor of this bill, and therefore we discussed in detail the amending of this bill in the Judiciary General Committee, and everything was eliminated from the bill with the exception of those matters pertaining to actions of assumpsit or suits on contracts, and actions of trespass or negligence cases.

A few words will explain to the gentlemen the simplicity of this measure, and the necessity for its enactment. They may be summed up as follows: it requires in the institution of a proceeding the filing of a paper which this act calls a "petition," (but to what word I am not wedded and have agreed to change it to the "statement of claim" if this bill passes the House and goes to the Senate) and the filing of an answer in all matters, irrespective of whether they are actions in assumpsit, or whether they are negligence cases or actions in trespass; that all matters which are not denied are admitted to be true, that simplifies practice and saves and eliminates the necessity of producing witnesses to prove things which are admitted in the papers filed in the case, to be true. The material change in that provision as compared with the present practice is the requiring of affidavits of defense or answers in negligence cases. Under our present law, Mr. Speaker, in trespass cases no affidavit of defense was required. A rule was taken upon the defendant to file a plea; the case was then placed at issue and ordered on the trial list and there was nothing before the court except the statement of claim which set out the facts upon which the plaintiff based his right to recover but there was nothing to indicate what the defense would be. What was the consequence? Suppose, for instance, a suit had been brought against a railroad company for damages through negligence. There was nothing in the pleadings to indicate whether the proper party had been sued or not when the case came on the list for trial, and frequently two years had expired between the actual occurrence and the trial of the case and the defendant went upon the stand and said "You have sued the wrong company" for instance, against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Now the accident might have happened upon the line of one of the leased concerns of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; possibly the P. B. & W. or some other railroad company which it controls and in many instances for which the Board of Directors and the managers were the same. Yet, because suit had been brought against the wrong party you were bowled out of court and your right to recover in any instance was gone because the Statute of Limitations says that no suit can be brought in matters of that kind after a lapse of two years. This requires an answer that such a condition cannot exist in the future. When you sue a name, the defendant, it is to be admitted under the provisions of this bill that that is in the proper defendant, unless the defendant comes in and files an answer stating that you have sued the wrong party. In that instance, there has been no injustice, because if the plaintiff receives notice as to who the correct party is now, it also provides that where the defendant does not know of a defense or has no knowledge of the facts which the plaintiff charges in his statement of claim concludes all that he has to do in his answer is to set up that he has no knowledge and that operates as a denial but in no instance in a damage case are damages which are alleged in the plaintiff's statement of claim taken to be admitted, so that no disadvantage can be taken of a defendant in that instance. This whole precedure and this whole proposed legislation is for the purpose of simplifying procedure so that the delays might be eliminated in the trial of cases before a court of justice. Now, Mr. Speaker, there seems to be some objection to this bill; not on account of the provisions of the bill, not on account of the merits of the bill or the supposed demerits of it; the only objection that I can find around here is due to the fact that there has been another Practice Act introduced in this Legislature; it was introduced, I believe, here on Monday night, referred to a committee and reported out yesterday and is now on the first reading calendar of today. There is very little, if any, material difference between these two acts, but there seems to be a disposition on the part of some of the judges in Philadelphia County to demand the withdrawal of the bill for which I am sponsor, in order that the other bill might pass this Legislature. What the reason for that is cannot appear to me to be anything more than the mere vanity of those who pose and act as one of our judges in Philadelphia County. This matter of my bill was taken up with a judge of Philadelphia County who is responsible for the introduction of that other bill. I argued it pro and con with him and he agreed with me that there was very little difference between the two bills and he thought his bill ought to be the one that would go through. It was then agreed, two weeks ago, between that gentleman and myself that if this bill went through the House and the same bill which he had introduced here in the House and had also introduced in the Senate by the same committee, I had no objections to this bill being referred to that same committee in the Senate, the Committee on Judiciary General, and if he could get that committee to report it, any difference could be eliminated as I was not pledged to having my name attached to any Practice Act and all I was anxious to accomplish was to accomplish results for which we are all striving. We had agreed to that and there was no objection, but after that agreement which I entered into with him that some judge wrote me a letter demanding the withdrawal of my bill from the floor of this House or sent back to the Committee to die and have this bill go through. I say to you, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, that the judges of Philadelphia County, either individually or collectively, are not big enough to coerce me or to compel me to do something which I think is unjust and unfair and if the time comes that men who are called here to Harrisburg to represent the citizenry of this Commonwealth in the matter of legislation are to be dictated to by the whims and fancies of any one individual be he a judge or a man holding any other position of trust, it is time that we abolish the Legislature altogether. I ask you gentlemen to support this bill and put in the position that I agreed it should be put in. I had no objection to his bill, which is on the first reading calendar today, also passing this House and being referred to the same committee in the Senate, and there being thrashed out in order that the best bill may come out of the Senate Committee and come back here for concurrence.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I regret exceedingly the necessity of entering into any discussion with the eminent gentleman from Philadelphia, the sponsor of the bill now before the House. I am not here, gentlemen, to apologize for any of the judges from my county; they need no apology. Nor have they made of the gentleman from Philadelphia any unreasonable demands nor have they attempted at any time duly or unduly to coerce even so eminent a gentleman as the sponsor of this bill to go from the chosen paths of duty that he has selected to follow as the sponsor of the ideas that are embodied in the Practice Act now before you, but anything that is worth doing is worth doing well and every lawyer in this House will agree that when it comes to the framing of a Practice Act which in its general scope regulates the procedure in civil cases in every county in this State that it must be handled with a supreme degree of care and not simply taken into a committee and changed and amended to suit the purposes of those behind it and without a word of consultation with the gentlemen of the bar or on the bench or the clients represented by the various lawyers of the State as to how their rights are to be effected. The gentleman from Philadelphia says that this is a matter of pride and egotism. I want to say to you gentlemen that I absolve him, personally, from any such thought or vanity on his part. I don't believe that he personally is responsible for the wording of this act but I do know this: that during the June sessions of 1912 the State Bar Association of Pennsylvania comprising in its membership some of the most eminent and learned men at the bar and on the bench came together and after a great deal of discussion and consideration resolved to present to this Legislature the draft on an act which in their judgment they thought would be wise and good for the general regulation of practice throughout this Commonwealth It is a peculiar coincidence that many of the sections of the bill now before you are worded almost identically with the words of the Practice Act suggest by the State Bar Association, and if there were nothing further in this discussion than the question as to who is entitled to the credit of presenting this bill, whether it be the State Bar Association or our humble friend from Philadelphia, I would willingly second his remarks and vote with him to pass this bill and send it forth into the Senate. But when he stands in this House and tells me that this Chamber is not able to handle its own business and to enact its own legislation and to frame its own bills but must rest for further correction upon the eminent gentlemen of the Senate, then I say that this House is big enough to attend to its own business. If you gentlemen will look at the bill which has been handed to you but a few moments ago and which was not on your file, you will find that section after section is stricken from what the bill was in its original form. The bill before you had no chance for a reading and a consderation due to a bill of the magnitude of this one.

Now, you will recall that I made a motion to place this bill upon the postponed calendar and my purpose in doing that was to afford the gentlemen of the Bar Association and the judges in my county and the judges in other counties of this State an opportunity to see wherein changes have been made in the original draft. It might be well for those who are interested that this bill had been postponed and if we had had the chance to go back to our constituents and explained this bill in its amended form we might have come here and voted for the final passage of this bill. I have not had, personally, an opportunity to read the amendments in the bill as it is now before this chamber. I tried on several occasions yesterday to secure copies of the bill and I was told by the messenger that there were not any to be had. I ask for these copies in order that I might send them to some of the judges in Philadelphia County. I want to say to you also that one of the judges of our county was here yesterday, attending the meeting of the Judiciary Special Committee, and he stated to that Committee that the bill which is now before you in his judgment is a vicious bill. What have you against the bill as the eminent gentleman presents it to you at this time? You have a bill that was drafted at the instance of the State Bar Associaion placed the matter in the hands of the subcommittee, Mr. Uhler Hensel from Lancaster, about as able a lawyer as the State of Pennsylvania ever produced, who with Hon. Robert Ralston worked for weeks and months to get this bill in shape, now when the sponsor of it asks an opportunity to read this amended bill and to see whether it meets with the approval of the State Bar Association and asks for a hearing in order that they might be heard, the gentleman from Philadelphia stands up in his place and resents the humble request to postpone consideration of this bill. Now, gentlemen, my own personal thought in the matter is this that if you defeat this bill now, the probabilities are beyond any shadow of a doubt that the gentleman from Philadelphia and I will be able to get together and agree upon terms in this bill which will be acceptable to the State Bar Association, and we can then pass upon the bill almost unanimously. Now, it seems to me gentlemen that I am taking the middle course. I have no axe to grind and I would rather vote under ordinary conditions with my friend from Philadelphia. I value his judgment in many things, but I say to you that in this matter there has been undue haste in his attempt to push this bill through and put it upon the third reading calendar without giving even the members of this House a proper opportunity to see wherein it differs from the bill that was offered on Monday night which was the bill of the State Bar Association. I am going to say just one word with regard to one of the absurd features of the bill. My friend spoke to you about some of the merits of the bill. I have not a word to say about "some of the merits," it is the demerits of the bill—the bad features of the bill that you will vote for when you pass upon his act. There is one provision there that says that instead of the declaration which is a matter of right, a man who brings suit in a court of justice after issuing his writ and having had the sheriff serve that writ upon the defendant, and after acquiring jurisdiction of the State in his proceedings by filing on the adverse party a copy of the statement of his claim, and ever since 1887 and for years prior thereto we have had a special practice that regulated narrs and statements. To those statements we filed affidavits of defence, and in praecipe cases we filed our pleas; now, he undertakes to substitute in place of the statement what he calls a "petition." Gentlemen, that is a mis-nomer, and I do not intend to trifle with words, but it is wrong for this reason—a statement is filed setting forth the facts of the case, but a petition is filed praying the court to make a certain rule, which the court has no right to make. It is simply acquired in the court by proceedings at law, by trial by jury, or rendition of judgment of the court on the merits of the case, but this feature of the bill is absurd on the face of it, because the law already says that you have fifteen days for the service of the statement on the adverse party. If you do not get an answer, you then move for judgment by default. Now that is one bad feature of the bill. Then there are any number of others in the bill, that in the few brief moments that I propose to take here, I will not take the time to refer to. But it does seem to me, gentlemen, that when the Bar Association of Philadelphia has worked on the bill for years and the late William Uhler Hensel as secretary of that body has certified to that bill, that we should give it our careful consideration—that is as little as we can do, and that is as little as we owe to the Bar of Pennsylvania and the Bench, to be careful how we move and consider these bills side by side and not act hastily here to-day by passing this bill.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, just a few words in reply to my friend from Philadelphia. My friend from Philadelphia seems to take exception to what he is pleased to style "undue haste" in the consideration of this bill now before the House, but certainly he must be speaking without knowledge of the facts. If he would take the trouble to look at the top of the bill now before the House he will find that the bill was introduced on the first day of February; was referred out of the Judiciary General Committee for printing on February 2nd; was recommitted to that committee and remained there until March 23rd, 1915. I would like to find out how long a bill must remain in order that due consideration be given to it before it be taken up for action by this House. Compare that with the action taken by the gentleman from Philadelphia on the so-called "Ralston Act" introduced in this House Monday night; referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special Tuesday morning; a meeting held before the Judiciary Special Committee Tuesday afternoon, and reported out to this House Tuesday night without any knowledge on the part of anyone, so far as I have been able to ascertain, except the members who were present at the hearing before that Committee that there was such a bill before this House.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wilson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, certainly.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, is it not a fact that the gentleman from Philadelphia was invited yesterday by myself and Judge Ralston, who happened to be here, to attend the meeting of the Judiciary Special Committee, and did we not consult with him before we went down stairs?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, it is not a fact and the gentleman knows it when he says it. The gentleman and Judge Ralston and myself stood in that corner over there. I did not know what their business was—did not know that the gentleman and Judge Ralston were going before a committee to discuss this bill. I did not know whose committee they were going to or that there was any committee in this House ready to take action at all upon this subject matter.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wilson, further.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wilson, permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Certainly, I will, sir.

Mr. BEYER. Does the gentleman care to name some of the gentleman who were around us at the time?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Beyer, Judge Ralston, and I think Mr. Stern was there.

Mr. STERN. No, sir, I was not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker. under those circumstances it certainly comes with ill grace for my friend from Philadelphia to complain about "undue haste." Now, what is the reason for his preliminary motion here to postpone the consideration of this bill when the bill in which he is interested has been reported out of commttee after being in this House one day, less than one day, and is on the calendar? What purpose could be accomplished? Is it the usual purpose which is looked for in any motion of that kind? To attempt to kill legislation? My friend says that this bill for which he is sponsor is the product of the State Bar Association. Again, sir, I say to you, gentlemen of this House, that he does not talk from facts. In 1912, the State Bar Association, of which I was a member, discussed a general practice act and appointed a committee but nothing was done. In 1913 I introduced in that session of the Legislature, a practice act which passed this House and which died in the last days of the session in the Senate. In 1914 the State Bar Association again took up the question of a practice act and they appointed a committee not only to draft a bill but to insure its passage in the Legislature, and that bill which is the proposed bill of my friend from Philadelphia has never been acted upon by the State Bar Association as a body, but is the result of the action in that committee and was introduced in both branches of this Legislature. That is the situation here, and that same bill which he introduced, if you will compare it with the bill which was introduced in this House in 1913 deals with the same subject and is on all fours with that bill. Now I ask you of this House in all fairness what is the proper thing to do in this instance? I have no pride of opinion about this, but I am put on my mettle when I am attempted to be coerced by any man, and I ask you to support me in my contention, that the only proper thing to do with this bill is to let it pass this House and then all the bills be considered in the same Senate Committee.

Mr. REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wilson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wilson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman to say that his act only covers actions of trespass and assumpsit?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Quite right, sir.

Mr. REYNOLDS. And do I understand that in the original draft of that act it contained a provision for equity proceedings?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Quite, right sir, which have been eliminated.

Mr. REYNOLDS. And do I understand that the provisions with reference to equity proceedings have been stricken out?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. REYNOLDS. And does the gentleman know that the title is defective, because it includes equity proceedings as drafted in the original act?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I did not so notice, sir, I am perfectly willing to have the title amended in the Senate. That is a mere matter of detail.

Mr. REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I regret that my friend from Philadelphia has seen fit to criticise his home judges. I regret that he has seen fit to criticise the Bar Association of Pennsylvania. I see no reason for it because I hold in my hand here a copy of a proposed act signed by Mr. Hensel and I feel sure Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, that the committee of law and reform passed on the provisions of this act or Mr. Hensel would never have signed his name to it. Do not be unfair, all we want is a good practice act; all we want is the best practice act. I have nothing to say in opposition to Mr. Wilson's bill, not one word except that you should defeat it here to-day. Why? Because I do believe and I think that every member of our bar in this State will agree with me that when our State Bar Association gets together, they give their very best thought to every measure before them the same as we are doing here, and when they come in here and ask you, as the State Bar Association of Pennsylvania, as lawyers, to see that their bill should be the bill that we adopt, because they are men of our own profession who have given hours of thought to this matter and sacrificed hours of their time and their money, and they only say to you and I as practitioners at the bar, "gentlemen that is our practice act." Now, if Mr. Wilson does not wish to postpone his act, I have nothing to say as to the desirability of his method of proceeding with this bill, but if he does not wish to postpone it, then gentlemen of the Bar of the State of Pennsylvania, it is our duty as members of that bar to kill his act.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, when the Honorable Robert Ralston appeared before that committee and explained the very fair manner in which he and William Uhler Hensel prepared this bill, or a draft of this bill, I see no reason why Mr. Wilson's bill should be rushed through and this other bill which has been so carefully prepared and has the endorsement of the committee appointed by the State Bar Association be set aside, and I certainly hope that the members will vote "no" on this proposition.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wilson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman to state who coerced him, and what means of coercion were used?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I stated in my remarks before this House, that I had a conversation at the solicitation of the Honorable gentleman from Philadelphia, who graces our bench there dealing with this particular practice act; that we discussed it thoroughly; that at that time it was suggested to him that if the bill pass the House, and go into the Senate, where question of amendments, if any were necessary, could be taken up. Since that time I have told this House that I received a letter from him demanding that this bill be withdrawn and upon further consideration that he thought that the bill which should go through was the other bill and this one should be withdrawn. Yesterday, sir, when we were discussing this question in the Hall of this House he again took up the question of amendments with me and I told him the same thing, that in so far as I was concerned I had no objections to discussing any proper amendments that were necessary, but in my judgment the bills were so much alike that with both the bills before this House I would be glad to take up these matters with him. He then stated he would not have anything to do with it, would have no such agreement with me, and walked off into the House and, as I suppose attended the meeting which the Judiciary Special Committee held. Since that time I have been informed he has asked members to vote against this bill.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I desire personally to resent that last remark. Judge Ralston was here yesterday afternoon. I met the gentleman in the ante-room and the very first request he made of me when we met was to ask for our friend from Philadelphia. I had seen our friend from Philadelphia but a few moments before and I escorted the Judge to yonder corner of the room and the Judge again held his conversation with my friend in regard to the bill; and I want to say that we invited Mr. Wilson at that time to join in our deliberations with the Judiciary Special Committee, but he seemed to have but one thought———

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Beyer.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Beyer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the gentleman state at what hour the Judiciary Special Committee was called for meeting.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, two o'clock.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Of which I had no knowledge nor did he specify that they were on the way to such a meeting, and the gentleman from Philadelphia knows that this hall was being occupied at that time by a public hearing on the Workmen's Compensation Bill which had been scheduled for a week previous.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, we distinctly told the gentleman where we were going.

I propose to say, Mr. Speaker, that on going into the meeting of the Judiciary Special yesterday, as I said before, we invited the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wilson. The discussion then took place between the Judge and Mr. Wilson regarding his bill and Mr. Wilson kept but one thought in view constantly; he said, "if you have any changes to make or any amendments, why can't you do it in the Senate?" I distinctly said to the gentleman at the time that we did not have any control over affairs in the Senate, we could not discuss the bill there, and we thought it a more honorable course to do it our way. That it what interview took place between us and we then started to the meeting down stairs. Now, of course, the bill appears on first reading today because at that time and in our meeting the bill was considered and received the endorsement of the committee as amended in committee, some few changes, and is on the first reading calendar.

Now I might agree with my friend from Philadelphia if he will only have patience and get together as lawyers and judges get together and with a judicial mind, free from bias and ambition, get down to justice and common truth; but I don't propose to run away from a duty as I see it and go back to my own county and say to the men upon the bench that we did not afford them an opportunity to even read it and that you are asked to vote on this to-day and give us as consolation the thought that our friend from Philadelphia gives—tell them to go to the Senate.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Chair reconsiders its decision. The bill was agreed to on third reading.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, as objection was raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Reynolds, to the defective title and as the title could be cleared up and no delay occasioned in the passage of the bill by merely striking out the words that his hypercritical mind objects to, I thought that by offering these amendments at this time I would meet one of the objections made by the objectors to this matter. However, it is so unimportant at this time that I think it would be well for the House to proceed to the consideration of this bill at this time on its merits and I therefore, Mr. Speaker, withdraw my amendments.

Gentlemen of the House, just one brief word: The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Beyer has talked to you at length and the very crux of his argument has been

"there has been undue haste on this bill:" and he said "let my friend from Philadelphia have patience." I know of no man in this House who has more patience than my friend from Philadelphia, the Chairman of the Judiciary General Committee, and who re-reported from the Committee on Judiciary General on St. Patrick's Day a bill that is almost identical, except for a few additions made which I think constitute about six lines, with the bill as offered this House today. There is no right in any man to stand on the floor of this House and let any insinuation go out that undue haste has been had with any bill for the purpose of influencing members if such is not the fact this bill or one very similar Mr. Wilson introduced in 1913 it passed this House with a great big vote and not one judge and not one lawyer officially connected with the State Bar Association thought it worth while to assist, at that time, in clearing up the practice complications and intricacies by sending us a single line. The credit for the beginning of this reform rests with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wilson. I recall, when his bill went to the Senate last session and I recall his vigor and industry and persistency in trying to pass it and I know when he introduced this bill on February 1st that he was the most approachable person in the world with whom to discuss this bill and to-day he has a bill that no man on the floor of this House has a right to say that every man in Pennsylvania has not had an opportunity to read. If you will turn back to the File Folio of the House 2877 you will see that a bill was reported out to this House on the Seventeenth day of March almost identical with the bill of today File Folio 3279.

Now, one word about the Judges: No man living has more respect for legally constituted authority than I have but I have no fetish in my make up for Judge or any other man. I give them that respect as a citizen and lawyer they should have; but let no man deceive himself. A Judge is in such an exalted position that his slightest suggestion carries great weight with it, but this proposition here today should be free from judicial control absolutely, when you consider that lawyers constituting the Judiciary General Committee of this House gave this bill careful consideration; and I say to you that if there is any merit in the bill as proposed by the learned Judge from Philadelphia, whom I respect and whom I discuss today now that he has been mentioned, as freely as I would any one because between him and me there is candid friendship and naught else,—if there is any merit in his proposed changes to this bill he lacks not the friends and the admirers in the Senate to be able to take care of what meritorious amendments he has to make. But Wilson has waited since February 1st; he has been fair every hour of time since. He is the first man that introduced a practice act and he has a good one and I come before this Legislature with candor and frankness and knowing that we stand here today on the better side of the argument and, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I ask unanimous support of this bill.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. REYNOLDS. I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. REYNOLDS. My point of order is this: That the act or title to this act is defective and therefore the act as it stands is unconstitutional until the title is amended and cannot be passed by this House in its present shape.

The SPEAKER. This being a constitutional point of order the Chair will submit the same to the House.

On the question,

Shall the point of order be sustained?

The point of order is not sustained?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I don't care to get into this controversy at all. When the bill was first introduced into the House I sent copies of it to some of the best lawyers in my County. They raised very serious objections to the bill and when I called my friend Wilson's attention to the bill he said the bill would be sent back to the Committee and the objectionable features, in the judgment of those men, would be taken out. Now the bill was on the calendar a few minutes ago and I see there are about eighty lines stricken out of the original which I sent to the attorneys in my county, men whom I am guided by and in whose judgments I have confidence. Really, I do not see why we should not have a day or two to make inquiry about the bill and the changes. It is true that my friend, Mr. Wilson, has striven to make the bill satisfactory to the men whose judgment I defer to. I am not a lawyer or capable of passing judgment on this proposition. It is a serious proposition in the practice of law and, really, it is almost a new bill. I do not think it is on account of the desire of any body to delay this bill but unfortunately the first bill was quite different from the bill as it now appears and I do not see why we cannot have a delay of a day or two to look into it and have it further considered, and that is the only reason I arose to state my position as I really could not vote for it under the present circumstances.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I may say to the gentleman from Delaware that the very objections to which he called my attention have been eliminated, and have been since the seventeenth of March.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I am afraid the gentleman from Philadelphia has me confounded with some one else with whom he has talked. I did not raise any particular objection to it, but simply said that our attorneys objected to it in its present form. Not being an attorney, I do not know how it applies to practice.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Baldwin, permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, will.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware after he talked with me about some of the attorneys from his county objecting to the bill, has he ever said to me, since that time, what those objections were?

Mr. BALDWIN. I would like to state to the House that I explained to my friend from Philadelphia that I am not an attorney and could not go into the subject and discuss it intelligently, consequently I simply presented letters from my friends from Delaware County who objected to it. I talked with others when home and was going to wait until the amendments came out to take it up. The amendments are here. Under other circumstances I might support the bill, if I had time to consult with my friends, in whom I have confidence.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, the bill has been amended and on the file since the Seventeenth of March and never, since the gentleman from Delaware first talked to me, has he called my attention to any particular amendment.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitutions, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary of the Governor being introduced, presented the following communication from the Governor, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 256.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 19th, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I return herewith without my approval, House Bill No. 256, entitled "An Act to further amend an act approved the thirtieth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, entitled 'An Act to amend the first section of an act approved the eleventh day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty nine entitled 'A further supplement to an act entitled 'An Act to establish a Board of Wardens for the Port of Philadelphia and for the regulation of pilots and pilotage and for other purposes,' approved March twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and three and for regulating the rates of pilotage and number of pilots.' "

The intent of this bill is to increase the fees of pilots on the Delaware River. These pilots perform in a capable manner an important service. They deserve a liberal compensation for their services. In the present condition of business it does not appear that they are now underpaid. Moreover, this is an unfortunate year not only for them but for all parties in interest in the commerce of the river. An earnest effort is being made to increase the business of the port of Philadelphia. In this increase these pilots will have a substantial share. All increased fees at this time would interfere with the general attractiveness t shippers of our port. If these pilots will bear with patience their share of a general depression they will win the good will of all citizens and, as soon as it can be done in justice, they should be given assistance. The time to increase charges in the Port of Philadelphia is inopportune.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill become a law, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

An Act regulating the practice of drugless theapeutics in the State of Pennsylvania defining the same creating a bureau of licensure therefor and means and methods whereby the right to practice drugless theapeutics in any of its branches may be obtained any exemptions therefrom Providing penalties for violation thereof and repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith from page 7 of today's calendar, bills on final passage, be made a special order of business for Monday, March 29th, at 10:00 o'clock P. M. BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 481, File Folio 2631, on page 8 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 481, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the fifteenth day of June one thousand eight hundred seventy-one entitled "An Act relating to the assessment of damage for the appropriation of land for public use"

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House the purpose of the repeal of the Act of 1871 is that land may be taken in the congested sections of Philadelphia for small parks or breathing spaces. The repeal of the act of 1871 is necessary because as the law now stands there can be no beneficiary assessment made against abutting property. The Act of 1871 was made necessary at a time that over 2000 acres of land was taken in Philadelphia County for the purpose of Fairmount Park, and as the abutting property owners would not be in a position to benefit by the park for years to come this act was passed in order to relieve the abutting property owners from any assessment of beneficiary damages. Now the necessity for this act has passed and it simply makes the abutting property owner of ground that would be taken for public park purposes liable to assessment in accordance with the benefit derived by his property.

On the question recurring

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Benninger,	Robertson,	Twibill,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 546, File Folio 2755, on page 9 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 546, entitled:

An Act to regulate certain kinds of insurance by individuals and partnerships or associations of individuals known as Lloyd's defining the power of such associations authorizing the Insurance Commissioner to grant a license and prescribing penalties for any violation thereof and repealing existing laws.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, this seems to be a bill of considerable importance, and I should like to have the gentleman from Delaware, the sponsor of the bill, tell the House the purpose of it.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, at the present time what are known as Lloyds are not permitted to do business in the State of Pennsylvania, although they do business in nearly every State in the Union. There is a great deal of insurance in the State of Pennsylvania placed in Lloyds by insurance agents and companies where they carry a surplus line. Consequently there are millions of dollars worth of real estate in Pennsylvania that today is protected by the Lloyds. This simply extends the right they have to do business in Pennsylvania, under the provisions of the laws that now regulate other fire insurers or insurance companies. It seems to me, the fact that we have so much insurance in the State that is protected by the Lloyds that we might as well get the taxation that will flow from the results of this bill. The other safeguards today that are thrown around fire insurance companies by the Insurance Commissioner and the insurance laws of the State of Pennsylvania are provided in this bill and will apply to the Lloyds when they come in to do business.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

VOL. 3. HARRISBURG, PA., THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 1915. No. 31.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, March 25th, 1915.

The House met at 10 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer:

Almighty and Most Merciful God, we thank Thee that Thou hast made man a little lower than the angels and hast crowned him with glory and honor. Thou hast endowed him with a soul, with vast possibilities of intellect, of Will and of sensibilities, and Thou hast said unto him "The whole duty of man is to fear God and keep His commandments." We thank Thee that it is impossible for man to escape his duty; wherever he goes he has his duty whether it is in the home or upon the street or upon the farm or in the halls of legislation, and cities and towns and states and governments are the products of the performance of his duty.

May we ever have the spirit to perform the duties which we meet every day—for may we meet them in the name of God and for God and for our own happiness and for the happiness of our fellowmen. We ask for Christ s sake. Amen.

Mr. RUDISILL: (during calling of the roll) Mr. Speaker, I protest against the conditions in this House. This bill was called up and it was so noisy that we were unable to hear what was going on.

The SPEAKER. There is nothing in order but the calling of the roll. The number of the bill is 430, File Folio 3461, on top of page six of to-day's calendar. The Chair certainly announced it in a loud tone of voice.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to state to the House that we are doing everything we can to be able to adjourn on May 6th and the Chair certainly gives every member a chance to protest against a bill, but it cannot sit here and wait a long while. If you are going to object to a bill, get up and object (applause).

BILL POSTPONED.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

Mr. DELL. Mr. Speaker, I notice that the title of this bill calls for Delaware County alone, but the body of the bill includes two other counties. I think the title of this bill is deficient.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, the title of the bill refers to the act to which this is an amendment. It is to amend the Delaware act to include Chester and Montgomery Counties, as I understand it.
